Winds, Tidal Flood Ravage Large Area

Houses And Huts Smashed, Ships At Anchor Capsized

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI) — Cyclonic winds up to 140 miles an hour devastated 5,000 square miles of East Pakistan's coastal areas early Wednesday. Heavy loss of life was feared from the storm and a tidal flood it created.

Communications were disrupted. Aviators flying over the area said houses and huts were smashed like match boxes and that ships at anchor at Chittagong capsized.

Unofficial estimates said the death toll could go as high as 1,000 but there was no immediate confirmation. A cyclone in the area three years ago killed 15,000 persons.

A Pakistan international airways plane said it could not land at Chittagong because of water and wreckage on the runway.

The civil aviation control tower at Dacca reported it was unable to establish contact with Chittagong. A wireless station operated by the East Pakistan rifles battalion also was reported out.

Authorities said the fringe of the cyclonic storm, which originated in a deep depression in the Bay of Bengal, swept the coastal areas first Tuesday night with 85 mile winds and that five hours later a cyclone with 140 mile winds hit the same area.

Officials said the offshore islands of Qutubdia, Hayiya and Hakeskhali inside the Bay of Bengal were hit by the storm and by a tidal flood 90 miles south of Chittagong.

The government tried in vain to send relief supplies. Planes could not land and rail lines were cut.

Strip Dancer Found Guilty In Doctor Death

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maxine Gross, 21-year-old night club stripper, was found guilty of first degree murder without capital punishment late Wednesday in the slaying of a Filipino doctor.

The verdict, announced by Judges Reuben Oppenheimer and James K. Cullen, carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

Sentence was deferred, however, pending the possible filing of a motion for a new trial by defense attorneys Nelson Kandel and Jerome A. Dashner.

Miss Gross went on trial Monday on charges of murdering Dr. DeoGracias Castro DeLeon, 29, in a Baltimore hotel last Nov. 25.

The burned body of Dr. DeLeon, chief resident in obstetrics and gynecology at St. Joseph's Hospital, was found in a shower stall.

"We have no doubt the defendant caused the death of the deceased and in proving her act of murder, the state met its burden beyond all reasonable doubt," said Judge Oppenheimer, who read the decision.

"In considering our verdict, we have taken into account the age and emotional and mental condition of the defendant.

"Testimony of Dr. Guttmacher revealed clearly that she was legally responsible for her act. It is true the defendant is emotionally disturbed. She was twice committed to mental hospitals, once for a period of years.

"Taking all the evidence and giving every inference to the presumption of innocense, we have no doubt of the guilt of the defendant."

Sugar Refiners Roll Back Some Of Price Increases

At 46, A Big Grin

President Kennedy flashed this grin yesterday when White House reporters wished him a "happy birthday." The President, marking his 46th anniversary, joshed reporters as they filed into his office. "You all look older today," he commented. The newsmen then congratulated him on his birthday. (Story at bottom of page) (AP Photofax)

Judge Throws Out Government School Desegregation Suit

Nation's Racial Crisis Snowballing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A key ruling in Birmingham Wednesday on a federal integration suit and a battle between police and pickets in Philadelphia underscored the nation's snowballing racial crisis.

In the Birmingham ruling U.S. District Court Judge H. Hobart Grooms dismissed a government suit seeking integration of public schools near the nation's Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala.

"Except in the field of voting rights, the Congress has granted the government no authority to bring a suit such as this," Grooms commented.

The ruling went right to the heart of an issue now under study by the Kennedy administration—whether to seek congressional enactment of legislation that would permit the attorney general to initiate court suits to protect civil rights.

A Justice Department spokesman said Groom's ruling would be appealed to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

The Philadelphia clash took place at a school construction site and involved 300 police officers and pickets protesting alleged racial bias on the part of the board of education.

Eight policemen and two pickets were injured in the skirmishes which flared when the pickets tried to prevent construction workers from reporting to their jobs.

President Kennedy, showing concern over the situation, moved on still another front, asking about 100 businessmen to a White House meeting next Tuesday to discuss discrimination against Negroes. Most of those invited are executives of northern firms with commercial interests in the South.

Despite the warnings and efforts, troubles mounted.

In Jackson, Miss., Wednesday afternoon police arrested 11 pickets protesting segregation and broke up a crowd of whites. The demonstrators carried signs urging a Negro boycott of segregated downtown stores.

Kennedy Presented 1963 'Father' Award

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy was presented the 1963 "father-of-the-year" award Wednesday.

National Father's Day Committee Chairman Alvin Austin, of New York, made the presentation. Kennedy was cited for his "brilliant and courageous defense and leadership of the free world and his humane championship of the rights and dignity of the individual over the entire universe."

Official Sees Drop To Where Jump Started

NEW YORK (AP)—A sugar price skyrocket turned downward Wednesday.

A government official predicted it will drop back to where it started.

Trade sources debated whether prices will fall as fast or as far as they rose but agreed that a major change appears in the making.

Housewives, however, probably will not feel any effects for several days.

A supermarket representative declared, "We haven't caught up with the rises yet."

The price break came when American Sugar Refining Co., the industry leader, pared its Northeast wholesale price for industrial refined sugar by 80 cents to $15.50 per hundred pounds.

National Sugar Refining Co., the No. 2 firm, followed suit quickly.

Congress Opens Hearings

The price action came as Congress opened the first of three scheduled hearings into the situation.

The price at the beginning of the year was about $10 a hundred pounds.

The American and National increases followed cuts earlier this week by Southdown, Inc., of New Orleans, La. Other firms then followed the reductions.

The cuts came after drops in raw sugar prices, which fell from $13.20 Thursday in New York to about $11.30 Wednesday. Futures contracts have fallen the legal daily limit on the commodity exchange in each of the last four trading sessions. London and Canadian markets have also weakened.

Psychological, Trade Says

The turnabout is chiefly psychological, trade sources said. The basic supply-demand situation hasn't changed, merely the trade's estimate of it. Indications that sufficient sugar has been committed to meet U.S. needs this year took the wind out of price sails.

Charles S. Murphy, undersecretary of agriculture who had predicted the "speculative bubble" would burst, told a congressional committee investigating the price leaps that prices will return to normal "in the reasonably near future."

Raw prices in the United States will return to 6 to 7 cents a pound now that uncertainty has been removed from the market, he told the Senate Finance Committee.

Coal Output Up

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Bituminous coal output for the week ended May 25 rose to 9,150,000 tons from 9,135,000 tons the prior week and 8,171,000 tons in the similar week last year, the National Coal Association reported Wednesday.

Equal Service Act Vote Sought By Petitioners

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Petitions are expected to be filed this week to keep Maryland's new public accommodations law from taking effect as scheduled Saturday.

Del. C. Maurice Weidemeyer, D-Anne Arundel, an outspoken opponent of the legislation, said Wednesday, "We are very hopeful of having more than enough signatures to delay the act.

The act would require equal service for Negroes in hotels, motels, and restaurants in Baltimore City and 11 counties as of June 1.

Weidemeyer said it is being petitioned to the November, 1964, general election ballot by the Maryland Petition Committee, a segregationist and state's rights group with headquarters here; the Referendum Committee of Maryland, with headquarters in Easton; and the Association of Citizens' Councils with headquarters at Hyattsville; and "numerous other groups and individuals."

Big Titan Rocket Explodes In Sky

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—An Air Force Titan-2, mightiest of America's war rockets, exploded in the sky Wednesday and hung two huge, red clouds of toxic fuel above this spaceport.

There were no injuries and the debris tumbled harmlessly into the Atlantic Ocean and onto barren stretches of Cape Canaveral. The dangerous clouds dispersed about one hour later.

It marked the first time in 16 launchings the 103-foot Titan-2 had blown up at the Cape. Officials were unable to immediately pinpoint the cause.

The rocket was similar to boosters that will power two - man teams of U.S. astronauts into earth orbits as a part of Project Gemini starting next year. The manned capsules will carry safety equipment to get men clear should such an accident occur.

Kennedy Inks Bill Upping Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy quickly signed Wednesday a bill boosting the national debt limit just which Congress rushed through as the Treasury was about to crack through the present legal ceiling.

The bill, passed by Congress only Tuesday and sent to the White House early Wednesday, temporarily hikes the debt limit to $307 billion. This insures that the government can pay its bills until June 30.

The two-stage bill then boosts the limit up to $309 billion for the months of July and August. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon has said he will be back for another increase then, possibly to $320 billion.

The Senate approved House-passed legislation without change Tuesday by a 60 to 24 vote. It had to be sent back to the House Wednesday morning for formal signing by Speaker John W. McCormack.

Blaze Quelled On Destroyer

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — An oil-fed fire erupted through the boiler room of the destroyer USS Blandy Wednesday upon its arrival for Memorial Day exercises here. A quick-thinking sailor saved the ship from extensive damage and its 323 crewmen from injury.

The fire broke out when an oil gauge line snapped and a stream of oil touched a spark or a hot pipe. The compartment was choked with heavy black smoke.

Boiler technician J. D. Mitchell of Mountain Grove, Mo., groped his way to the ruptured line, then to the oil supply and turned it off.

Mitchell ordered out the four sailors on duty with him in the boiler room and shut all the doors so the fire would not spread to the rest of the ship.

Soviet Rebuffs U.S. Bid For Ban On Tests In Air

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Wednesday the United States has renewed its offer to sign a treaty banning nuclear tests in the atmosphere but the Russians were not interested.

The Soviet Union's reluctance to "sit down and talk" about even a limited agreement may mean the Russians are planning another round of tests, Rusk told a news conference.

On the other hand, Rusk said, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev simply may be postponing any moves on this issue until the Russians and Chinese Reds talk over their differences at a Moscow meeting scheduled for July 5.

In any event, the secretary said, the United States is not planning to resume nuclear tests "in the immediate future."

He said President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were sending another message on testing to Khrushchev but did not go into details.

Rusk said he brought up the matter of a limited ban covering only atmospheric tests at a recent meeting with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. A group of 34 senators has sponsored a resolution calling on the administration to make such an offer.

The secretary said the ambassador gave no indication that his country was any more interested when it turned down the same offer made in the past by both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Asks For Prayers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington, Wednesday called upon all Catholic churches of his archdiocese to offer special prayers for Pope John XXIII.

Transfusions Help Pontiff Read, Pray

Vatican, For First Time, Describes Illness As Grave

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII, showing continued improvement in his struggle for life, has regained some of his color and has been able to read, pray, and meditate, the Vatican reported Wednesday night.

Massive blood transfusions that boosted the pontiff, 81, through his worst crisis Tuesday apparently still were having effect.

Pope John's Rome physician, Dr. Piero Mazzoni, examined the Roman Catholic Church ruler Wednesday evening, then left the Vatican. Other medical attendants stood by.

Despite the reported improvement, the Vatican acknowledged for the first time that the Pope's illness is grave and that he has been through acute crisis. The threat of a new crisis is always present.

The mood at the Vatican relaxed somewhat, however. One report said that Dr. Pietro Valdoni, one of the physicians, told a high prelate that if the Pope continued showing improvement, he might be able to rise from his bed in a week or so to sit in a chair.

The Vatican press office announced late Wednesday night it was closing down until morning.

Crisis Mentimed

The communique spoke of "acute moments of crisis" and said the Pope had not suffered "any lapses or bewilderment" during them.

The Vatican radio, in a separate announcement said: "The Pope is ill. His illness is grave."

The Vatican previously had not used the words grave and crisis—not even in the Tuesday communique which described the Pope's illness as a gastric heteroplasia, or abnormal growth, causing hemorrhages. This could be a cancer, a benign tumor or an overgrowth of tissue.

The Vatican press office apparently was moving to give more information on the Pope's condition. It promised three communiques a day.

It was clear that statements of improvement were only relative.

There was no evidence of hope that improvement would be permanent.

Taken Illness Calmly

Privately, Vatican officials were concerned at what might happen once the effects of blood transfusions wore off. The Pope has not been responding so rapidly to treatment of internal bleeding as he did at first.

L'Osservatore Romano and the Vatican radio said he was taking his illness calmly and courageously.

The paper said the bedridden pontiff passes his days "in serenity, in prayer, in constant abandon in the Lord."

The Pope's nephew, the Rt. Rev. Giovanbattista Roncalli, arrived at the Vatican as an emissary from Pope John's north Italian family.

While prayers were being said around the world for the Pope, the Vatican switchboard continued to receive a flood of calls about the Pope's condition. Some suggested medicines. Others offered names of doctors they said had treated relatives of theirs for ailments similar to the Pope's.

Four Hurt In Wreck Of Senior Class Train

ELDRED, Pa. (AP)—A train taking a graduating high school class to Washington, D.C., was derailed Wednesday just south of the New York State line. Four persons were hurt, none seriously.

The seven - car Pennsylvania Railroad train piled off the tracks 12 minutes after leaving a station at Olean, N.Y. The last two cars landed against an embankment. The others blocked the double-track line.

The train carried 60 passengers. Forty-six were seniors of Cattaragus (N.Y.) Central School enroute to Washington on a class trip. Four chaperones were with them.

JFK Gets Keg Of 46-Year-Old Brandy, Old Gun, 'Father' Award On Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy cautiously conceded Wednesday, in the midst of a rigorous, vigorous day in his office, that this was his 46th birthday.

While he hesitated before saying so, Kennedy didn't seem to resent passing another milestone. And he took the offensive by telling a group of newsmen: "You all look older today."

Presents and greetings and well-wishes poured in at the White House. Among other things, Kennedy got a keg of 46-year-old brandy, a Civil War rifle, and a "Father of the Year" award.

Mrs. Kennedy arranged a surprise birthday dinner for about 25 friends and members of the family aboard the yacht Sequoia, but word of this seeped out ahead of time.

For a president, a birthday doesn't provide any respite from official duties. Kennedy was putting his attention on the racial problems in the South and ways of ending tensions with possible legislation.

And he was seeing the usual line of official visitors. A group of governors came in for lunch—for the first of a series of similar meetings with all the state executives to discuss problems of federal-state concern.

A visiting member of the British Parliament, Patrick Gordon Walker, showed he was puzzled when Kennedy greeted a group of reporters with the "You all look older today" crack. The newsmen chorused a "Happy Birthday" to Kennedy and Gordon asked what was going on.

"I'm 40—er—6 today," the President explained with a grin.

The brandy of the same age was a gift from some New York physicians who are members of a wine connoisseurs club.

The Father of the Year medal came from Alvin Austin, chairman of the National Father's Day Committee, who said it was for Kennedy's "brilliant and courageous defense and leadership of the free world and his humane championship of the rights and dignity of the individual over the entire universe."

The rifle of Civil War vintage was the type that President Abraham Lincoln fired, then fired his ordnance chief for having rejected it.

The weapon was presented by Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance and the Army vice chief of staff, Barksdale Hamlett.

U.S. Denies Plane Fired On Cubans

HAVANA (UPI)—The Castro regime charged Wednesday a U.S. Navy patrol plane fired on a Russian-Cuban oil drilling team on tiny French key island off Cuba's north coast Sunday morning.

(In Washington, the Navy denied the charge but said there apparently was gunfire from unidentified sources in the vicinity. The Navy said a patrol plane was in the area but did not fly over the island. The pilot, however, reported sighting splashes apparently from gunfire in the vicinity.)

The Cubans charged the plane, a turboprop amphibian, made several passes over the island at 600 feet and in what was termed "a provocative action" fired a burst from heavy machineguns.

Kremlin Fires Artillery Chief For Protecting Spy

MOSCOW (UPI)—Chief Marshal of Artillery Sergei Varentsov has been ousted from his senior post in the Soviet armed forces and demoted for allegedly protecting convicted Russian spy Col. Oleg Penkovsky, the government newspaper Izvestia reported Wednesday.

Two other Soviet military officers identified as Maj. Gen. A. Poznovny and Col. V. Buzinov also have been disciplined for showing Penkovsky materials connected with their work, the newspaper said.

It was the first official disclosure that sanctions had been taken among high - ranking acquaintances of Penkovsky who was condemned to death by a court this month for allegedly passing Soviet military, economic and political secrets to an Anglo-American intelligence ring.

British businessman Greville Wynne, who stood trial for espionage with Penkovsky, was sentenced to eight years confinement.

Lt. Gen. of Justice A. G. Gorny, prosecutor at the Wynne-Penkovsky trial, in an Izvestia interview Wednesday night denied reports abroad that Penkovsky had not been executed as the Soviet government announced.

"Penkovsky is dead," Gorny said. "He met death like a despicable coward."

Gorny said Varentsov, a 62-year-old war hero, and other officers linked to Penkovsky had been "subjected to strict administrative and party discipline."

Land Deals Are Outlined At Ex-Legislators' Trial

BALTIMORE (AP) — A history of transactions involving two large tracts of land that figure in the conspiracy and conflict of interest trial of two former Democratic congressmen was completed Wednesday by defense attorney Edward Bennett Williams.

Williams, who is representing former Alabama congressman Frank W. Boykin, outlined the transactions Tuesday and Wednesday to support his contention that $250,000 received by Boykin was part of a legitimate land deal, and not for use of his congressional influence.

On trial with Boykin are former Maryland congressman Thomas F. Johnson and two Miami, Fla., savings and loan operators, J. Kenneth Edlin and William L. Robinson.

The two tracts of land, one containing about 8,000 acres in Charles County, Md., and the other some 5,000 acres in Stafford County, Va., were owned by Boykin, later acquired by companies controlled by Edlin, and finally were bought by Connecticut developer Francis J. Finneran.

When the property was sold to Edlin, firms headed by the 64-year-old Miami businessman paid Boykin's timber company $250,000.

Williams produced evidence intended to show that the $250,000 was part of a bona fide transaction with Edlin that resulted in the sale of the two tracts for $9 million.

The government contends that a condition of the payment to the timber company was that Boykin use his influence to get the Justice Department to drop a 1959 mail fraud case against Edlin.

The government prosecution has challenged defense testimony on the value of the property, saying the $9 million sale price was inflated.

Williams produced evidence today on the sale in late 1961 to the Finneran interests in an effort to help establish the market value of the tracts for development purposes.

His witness, Lykes Boykin, no relation to the former congressman, summarized the agreement by which Finneran bought the property from the Edlin companies.

The witness said Finneran ultimately paid $309,000 in cash for the stock of the two land companies which held title to the two tracts. The two land companies, he added, owed a total of $8,750,000 in mortgages on the properties when Finneran bought them.

The oldest known paper money was issued in China in the 14th century. It was printed on mulberry bark paper, and measured 8.5 by 13.5 inches.

House Votes End To Mexican Field Hand Importation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted Wednesday to end the 12-year-old program under which U.S. farmers have been importing Mexican field hands - a practice labeled slave labor by one congressman.

A 174-158 roll-call vote turned down a bill that would have extended the so-called "bracero" program until Dec. 31, 1965.

It was the sixth time an extension had been sought for the law enacted in 1951.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy announced Wednesday that Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia will visit the United States for 10 days starting Oct. 1.

Rail-Union Teams Plan Holiday Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in the railroad "featherbedding" dispute announced Wednesday that they will hold a holiday session Thursday and may continue their talks through the weekend.

A spokesman said this was not necessarily an indication of progress toward settling their work rules dispute, only that the negotiators were aware of the June 12 strike deadline.

The dispute invoives most of the nation's railroads and five operating unions representing some 200,000 on-train employes.

The central issue is the desire of the railroads to eliminate some 40,000 firemen from freight and yard trains, plus their demand for authority to overhaul work rules when necessary to keep pace with technological improvements.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — James C. Vancherie, reelected mayor of Havre de Grace three weeks ago, says the city is going to build a sewage treatment plant which "in all probability will be located on city property somewhere in town."

The State Health Department has been pressing for construction of the plant since 1946. Nine years ago, when the state agency ordered the city to build the plant, Vancherie had said, "They can sue and be damned."

A key issue of the municipal election was location of the plant.

Westinghouse Will Lease Towson Plant

BALTIMORE (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. announced plans Wednesday to lease a new plant in Towson where eventually 600 persons will be employed in electronic equipment test activity.

Buford M. Brown, vice president of Westinghouse's Defense Center, situated in Anne Arundel County, said the air-conditioned building would contain about 100,000 square feet. The move is scheduled for early 1964.

The new plant will support Westinghouse's air arm and electronics divisions near Friendship International Airport.

Brown said Westinghouse employs nearly 13,000 people in Maryland and is the state's second largest industrial employer.

State's Traffic Toll Now 230

By The Associated Press

Maryland's 1963 traffic fatality count stood at 230 Wednesday, 40 more than at the same time last year, as the state headed into the usually lethal Memorial Day holiday.

The National Safety Council started its count of the nation's holiday traffic deaths at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The holiday is officially over at midnight Thursday.

Two persons died in separate accidents in Maryland Wednesday.

Mrs. Barbara Ann Ewing, 29, of Arlington, Va., was killed when the car in which she was riding spun out of control on Powder Mill Road in Adelphia.

Prince Georges County police said the car skidded about 100 yards and struck a drain pipe. Mrs. Ewing apparently was tossed against the side of the car.

Clem Marshall, about 60, of Upper Marlboro, was killed when he was struck by a truck while walking across Maryland 50 near Davidson in Anne Arundel County.

Pittsburgh Management Advisor Pioneers Programmed Instruction Method

By LAWRENCE R. WERNER

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — While science is reaching for the moon, a Pittsburgh management advisor is pioneering a programmed instruction method he believes will be the foundation for industrial efficiency in the space age.

Dr. H. B. Maynard says his programmed instruction in Methods-Time Measurement (MTM), initiated two months ago at the Maynard Research Council in suburban Wilkinsburg, already is justifying the costly changeover from the conventional methods previously used in the MTM course.

MTM, explains Maynard, "applies predetermined time standards to all the basic motions involved in physical work."

When Maynard set up his first course in MTM in 1948, he utilized ordinary educational techniques, lectures, quizzes, visual aids and the like.

But, the programmed instruction system is a radical departure in that the student "learns by doing."

"Teaching machines are the backbone of the course," said Maynard.

Each student or trainee occupies a partitioned, air conditioned cubicle where he works on the programmed instruction material. The teaching machines present new material to the student who responds by writing answers corrected by the machine, enabling the trainee to learn at his own pace.

Besides the teaching machines, Maynard's programmed instruction method includes movies and kinescopes, lab work and experimentation. Also, a trained counsellor is available for consultation at any time.

Maynard, who also heads H. B. Maynard and Co., a management consulting firm, says MTM procedures have resulted in savings of millions of dollars to some firms and rescued smaller organizations from the brink of bankruptcy.

Large firms such as Westinghouse Electric Corp., General Motors and U.S. Steel Corp. as well as smaller companies send personnel to the Maynard Research Council to learn the system for improving methods and measuring work.

Comparing programmed instruction with conventional methods, Maynard said:

"Now time study men, industrial and methods engineers and others can take the course at any time on regular or irregular schedules. There is a constant high level of instruction independent of the ability of any classroom instructor."

Length of the course is approximately 100 hours.

American-Run Casino Launched On Isle Of Man

DOUGLAS, ISLE OF MAN (AP) —The click of roulette wheels and cries of croupiers ushered in the dawn over this archaic little island Tuesday in an American-backed venture to create a new Las Vegas in the middle of the Irish Sea.

Gamblers played their luck in stately ballrooms of the seafront Castle Mona, a former home of the Duke of Atholl, where courtesans once danced the minuet.

After nearly a decade of haggling that has split the House of Keys, the Manx Parliament, the casino was opened Monday night in a bid to boost tourism, the life blood of this island famed for tailless cats, four - horned sheep, hotdr-ftsen street cars and kippers.

The American syndicate running the casino has spent 50,000 pounds ($140,000) on the temporary site in the Castle Monda. Another 100,000 pounds ($280,000) has been deposited with the Manx Government to be forfeited if work does not commence in two years on a multimillion-dollar cliff-top casino and hotel at nearby Groudle Glen.

For the Americans and the casino supporters their venture is a gamble to make this 300-square-mile isle, population 48,000, one of Europe's top gambling spots.

Opponents of the casino claim it will bring undesirables.

The syndicate is headed by 42-year-old William Albury, Jr., a night club and hotel property owner at Jacksonville Beach, Fla. His partners are John Hickey, a bingo tycoon from Baltimore, and Mrs. Helen McGarvey Saul, a widowed realty owner of Silver Springs, Md.

Thirty dealers and coupiers staff the casino from 11 a.m. to 5 a.m. most of them are local residents trained by Las Vegas dealer Bill Parris, who has a stake in the casino.

The aim is to fly in big money gamblers free and even to include the Isle of Man in European package holidays.

Century Club Recesses After Installation Dinner

Announcement that new officers and chairmen of the board will meet before September to plan the coming year and get ready for the Christmas Caravan was made at the dinner of the LaVale Century Club Tuesday evening at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Albert Heacox, president of the First District, GFWC, installed Mrs. William Hoover, president; Mrs. Raymond Twaits Jr., Mrs. Stanley Sliviak, vice presidents; Mrs. Edwin Miller, Mrs. Glenn Martin, corresponding and recording secretaries; and Mrs. Harold Francis, treasurer.

Mrs. Ray Dickerson presided and presented certificates and a blue ribbon to Mrs. George Newman for arts and crafts at the April convention. Mrs. Edgar MacMannis received honorable mention. Annual reports of committee chairmen were distributed. The club's choral group sang three selections with Mrs. Allen Macy directing and Mrs. Kenneth Wolf at the piano.

Tiny corsages attached to pastel ribbons woven around a plastic May pole in a short-stem milk glass bowl with babybreath and spring flowers were the favors. Spring flowers in pastel colors formed the centerpiece for the officers' table. Decorations were by the garden group headed by Mrs. Robert Huck and Mrs. Thomas S. Brown Jr.

Betty Chaney Heads Queen City Mud Hens

The Queen City Mud Hens elected Mrs. Betty Chaney president and Mrs. Roberta Powers secretary-treasurer at the annual banquet held Tuesday evening at the Cumberland Country Club. Favors were red ribbon roses made by Mrs. Georgetta Gilford and Mrs. Eleanor Snyder.

Ceramic exhibits featured the program. They included hand-thrown pieces, a small scalloped vase with colored slip and slabs of clay attached and a large vase done in red by Miss Carolyn Burkey. Mrs. Powers showed a grape compote done in milk glass and a planter in autumn and pessarae. A flower arrangement dish in moca gold with real and artificial flowers and a plate in water etch were shown by Mrs. Ellen Cook.

A six-tile plaque showing flower design done in one-stroke by Mrs. Thelma Niland; a Grecian vase done in one-stroke and underglaze by Miss Helen Cherry; a plate done in hand carve with rose design and a pitcher with pine cone attached, by Mrs. Grace Trevaskis, were also exhibited.

Mrs. Irene Critzman displayed a tray done with string painting which she learned at the Asbury Park show and a dwarf done in green and brown glaze. Mrs. Chaney presented pieces she made in classes at the Asbury show, also a Hawaiian salad bowl done in nutmeg and marshmallow.

The club recessed for the summer and will resume meetings September 17 at the home of Mrs. Chaney, Bedford Street. Guests for the evening were Miss Burkey, Mrs. Ella Klavuhn, and Mrs. Eve Cameron. Mrs. Iva Dean Turley was the other member present.

It's a good wardrobe rule never to put a pair of white gloves back in the drawer unless they have been freshly sudsed.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Frulls, Fluff—And Fire!

Two thousand dead; three hundred thousand injured in one year—the grim statistics of battle? Disease? Flood? No, these are the estimated casualties caused by clothing catching on fire.

These tragedies are largely preventable; and no woman should consider herself a fashion expert without knowledge of safety measures. We tend to overlook this possibility until it is brought home by the suffering or loss of an individual whom we know.

On hearing of severe burns — often severe enough to be fatal—caused by quick-flashing flames, most of us would suppose that it could be blamed on a particular material, perhaps a synthetic. But fire safety experts tell us that the material itself is of much less importance than the weave, and the garment's cut.

Dense, heavy weaves — thick woolens, heavy cotton dock—will not ignite quickly, so that the wearer would ordinarily be able to extinguish a spark easily. Straight, tailored cuts eliminate excess material, so that men are not as liable to such accidents as women.

The danger increases with lighter weaves, billowing folds, filmy layers. Particularly hazardous are such items as glamorous nightgown and peignoir ensembles — and the layers of fluffy petticoats which look so adorable on little girls. Especially, considering that these frothier fashions are apt to be worn at times when we're emphasizing holidays, or setting a romantic or dramatic scene, with candlelight, open fires and the like.

Does this hazard mean that we should advocate getting rid of all feminine fluff? Of course not! But it certainly means that a sensible woman will exercise particular care of herself and her family with this knowledge in mind. Ordinary care in regard to smoking, ash trays, kitchen and household hazards, fire screens, should be intensified when wearing such clothing.

Advances in fabric processing have already made available, in some areas, methods of flame-proofing clothing and bedding, until such measures are widely available—and even after—awareness of possible danger and reasonable prevention measures are your most reassuring armor.

The Potato And Your Diet

If it's a potato you dieters are yearning for, go ahead and have one! Properly prepared and simply seasoned and dressed, a potato is an important source of essential minerals; and its skin is an excellent source of vitamin C.

Some diets permit half a potato a day. I think it's safest to plan on a medium-sized potato once or twice a week. And here's a real surprise! Occasionally you can safely treat yourself to a sweet potato. Sweets are an excellent source of the eye and skin enhancer, vitamin A. As they run higher in calories than whites, a half sweet potato should be the limit of your intake per week.

To retain vitamins, cook your potato with the skin on and eat a generous amount of the skin. Baking is the ideal method. When you boil your potato, use as little water as possible, or both the valuable minerals and vitamins will go down the drain leaving only starch behind. Pressure cooking retains most of the food value and rates second only to baking as a cooking method.

Of course you must count your potato into your day's calorie allotment, but this is small penalty. A medium-size potato costs you only about 80 calories. It's the gravy, butter or frying that brings the count up to 200 and over. So you can see it is not the potato that is the offender but its garnishment and fixings.

Make that desired loveliness a sure thing—you can't afford hit—-and-miss! Get the exciting charm chart, "Your Thirty Days to Charm." A different beauty aid for every day of the month. Just send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to John Robert Powers in care of this newspaper.

THE STRIDE RITE SHOE
THE SHOE THAT UNDERSTANDS CHILDREN

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Memories of the stock market crash of "Black Monday," May 28, 1962, seemed to have faded into the past.

Brokers and investment analysts had their eyes on the future on this anniversary date of the worst market plunge since 1929.

The brokerage firm, Thomson & McKinnon, asks:

Twelve months after all the fear or recession, or worse, depression, where are we now?

The firm gives this rundown on the economic situation:

Stocks, as the Dow Jones industrial average indicates, are stalemated just under their peaks of December 1961. The economy, meanwhile, possibly is on the threshold of a boom.

Industrial production, having moved in a narrow band for nine months, finally has broken into new high ground.

Personal income is on the rise, adding to the buying capacity of the consumer. A tax cut conceivably would set off a whole new buying spree.

In many significant areas business is moving ahead rapidly. First-quarter earnings reports were generally favorable. Some disappointments cropped up, but by and large the corporate picture has been stimulating to the market.

"More of the same seems to be in store for the completion of the second quarter," says Thomson and McKinnon.

"The sum and substance of the past 12 months (First, fear and doubt—then, slow rebuilding of confidence) is that 93 per cent of the stock market loss has been regained."

Fill-In Flash Used By Amateurs Improves Snapshots

By BART KINCH
United Press International

Summertime is picture taking time—the season when film sales soar and friends and relatives are not too startled by the call to "Hold it!"

Many fine snapshots are marred by the fact that too many amateur photographers still insist on having the sun behind them with resultant squinting and frowning by the subject.

However, if the subject turns away from the intense sunlight, very important details sometimes become buried in dark shadow. This is particularly noticeable when color film is used.

What can be done to correct this? The answer is fill-in flash.

In using this technique, light from a flash bulb or electronic flash unit fills in the troublesome shadow areas with light, thus bringing out the otherwise obscured detail and allowing the subject to face away from the squint-producing glare of direct sunlight.

Long a regularly-used technique among professional photographers fill-in flash often is passed over by the amateur as too complicated or troublesome to master. In actual practice, such is not the case.

If your camera is synchronized for flash you easily use fill-in to produce more flattering pictures of people ir bright sunlight. The sun itself in such pictures often results in stunning effects because of the backlighting, similar to the use of extra spots or floodlights by the portrait photographer to produce a halo effect.

Setting Important

Good results with fill-in flash generally are obtained by setting the camera anywhere from 8 to 15 feet from the subject, depending on the power of the flash. The trick is not to allow the flash to over fill the shadows, thus overpowering the sunlight.

Have the subject stand so that the sun provides a side or backlight effect, thus edging the face or hair with a strong highlight. Set the camera for the correct normal sunlight exposure, compose, focus and shoot. If necessary, hold your flash unit off the camera to get light into the shadow areas properly.

Clear flash lamps will do for black and white films, but if you are shooting with color film, you will have to use blue-coated bulbs or an electronic flash unit which matches the color temperature of daylight. Of course, electronic flash also can be used for black and white pictures.

The closer you are to your subject, the stronger will be the fill-in effect from the flash. When camera-to-subject distance is less than 8 feet, you will need to cut the intensity of the flash to avoid over filling and the possibility of washing out the subject.

Cuts Light Output

A clean white handkerchief can be draped over the flash reflector to cut its light output. Several thicknesses of handkerchief will be needed at distances under five feet. Some models of electronic flash units have half-power switches to cut their light output by a full stop. Others have variable beam reflectors that can be set for wide-angle coverage to cut down light intensity.

Like most photographic techniques, fill-in flash is best learned and mastered by actually using it in practice. Next time you head outside for a picture session, take along your flash unit. Use the sun's light as an ally. Let it light your subject from the side or rear, with light from your flash gun illuminating unwanted shadows.

After shooting a roll or two of film, you will soon learn at what distances you get the best results and how much you have to cut the light intensity at close range.

A glance at your prints and transparencies will quickly demonstrate the professional touch that fill-in flash adds to your photographs.

Punch, as a beverage, probably was named after a Hindu word meaning five. This was usually the number of ingredients used to make the beverage.

Summer shirts for ladies are cut longer with rounded slit sides in the manner of Chinese dresses. They can be worn over brief shorts for a covered-up look or they can be converted into beach-coats and ensembled with swimsuits.

Hair is shorter than ever for summer. From one salon (Charles of the Ritz) comes the short, clipped English boy bob inspired by Lord Byron. A tonsorial poem!

Looking for a strong year in '63 is mink—in a dozen natural colors and more than 50 shades—ranging from pure white through beiges, brown, lavender, blue, grey to deep gunmetal.

For a patio life, a reversible skirt can be worn showing either a calico print or plain colored denim.

Warm-weather shifts are cut several inches above the knee to convert from beach dresses to casual tunic tops for pants or companions for long at-home skirts.

Mile Shrinks Ten Feet Since Early Colonial Days

By MICHAEL KRAFT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The country mile, like the dollar, seems to have shrunk a bit during the past 200 years, according to a top government surveyor.

A recent survey of the historic Mason-Dixon line indicated that a mile went farther during Colonial days.

The men who laid out the boundary between Maryland and Delaware in 1874 and 1765 used a measure that was about 10 to 12 feet longer than the present-day mile.

These figures came from B. J. Meade, chief of the Triangulation branch of the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. (CG&S). The federal agency resurveyed the Mason-Dixon line, popularly considered the dividing line between the North and South, during 1861 and 1862.

"Since measurements in the original (Colonial) surveys are fairly consistent, there is some indication that the length of the foot 200 years ago was longer than that today," Meade said in a paper delivered recently to the American Congress on Surveying and Mapping.

He later told UPI that measurements by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon seemed to tally with distances laid out by other Colonial surveyors. This discounted the possibility that only Mason and Dixon used measuring chains that were too long, he said.

Meade figured the Colonial foot was about one-fourth of an inch longer than the modern version.

In laying out the line, Mason and Dixon's men set up stone markers at what they thought were mile intervals. But the 1961 survey discovered that the markers were about one mile and 10 feet from each other. In some cases, the distance was a mile and 12 feet.

Meade said that since the errors were fairly consistent, distances must not only have seemed longer in Colonial days but were also measured that way. In short, a person running a mile would have to go at least 10 feet longer if he were going by Colonial standards.

The Mason-Dixon line during pre-Civil War days was the boundary between slave and free states. Mason and Dixon, two English astronomers, made the survey when the Pennsylvania and Maryland colonies decided to settle their boundary dispute.

Air Conditioning Has Many Benefits

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — How does air conditioning affect your health?

Nearly everyone agrees it can make life more comfortable during the hot summer months, but there is considerable controversy over its relation to health. Some persons claim it is a panacea for respiratory troubles. Others say it gives them the sniffles or worse.

Scientists at the General Electric Laboratories at Appliance Park here recently reported that an air conditioner:

—Filters out germs. Some germs—not all germs. Most filters now in use inhibit the growth of the germs they trap. This doesn't mean all germs in the air, simply those germs trapped by the filter.

—Eases some of the discomfort of allergies. It will not cure allergies, but will make sufferers from allergies due to air borne dust and pollen more comfortable.

—Reduces the strain which extremely hot weather places on the heart. Cardiacs are advised to spend at least part of their time indoors during hot weather in air conditioned comfort.

—Benefits a sinus condition—because it dehumidifies the air and filters out most dust and irritating pollen. Cool, crisp, clean air is conducive to comfort, but it will not of itself cure sinus condition.

—Insomnia — Air conditioning cannot cure insomnia but it can eliminate some of the physical causes of sleeplessness—warm, stale, muggy air, sodden bed clothes, the irritating effects of dust and pollen.

Saturn To Be Bigger

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn C—5 rocket which is to boost America's three-man Apollo spaceship toward the moon late in this decade will weigh more than six million pounds, stand over 300 feet tall and develop 7.5 million pounds of thrust.

By comparison, the Atlas presently used in the U. S. man-in-space program weighs 130 tons, is 82 feet tall and builds up 360,000 pounds thrust.

The later Nova rocket will have upwards of 12 million pounds thrust and reach more than 400 feet tall.

Use of asphalt for road paving has increased in the United States from about half a million tons in 1919 to more than 11 million tons.

ARM SEWED BACK, OPERATION SUCCESSFUL—Everett Knowles Jr. gives the OK sign in Boston to show everything is coming along just fine. A year ago he was carried into the Massachusetts Hospital with his right arm severed below the shoulder. A team of surgeons sewed it back on. Today, a year later, he can move all five of his fingers, and he has feeling in four.

Plate Catcher

MIAMI (AP) — Charles Hesser, Miami News political writer, was returning by train from Washington when he dropped a denture down the washbowl drain in his roomette.

Hesser summoned porters, who informed him the drain had a trap to intercept items such as rings, watches and teeth. After a brief struggle the trap was opened and the denture recovered.

"There's them teeth," the porter told Hesser. "All they need is a little cleaning up. Breakfast's at 6:30 in the morning."

John Roebling made the first wire rope to be made in the United States at Saxonburg, Pa.

Seamstress Scarcity

BERLIN (AP) — When the Communists put up the wall dividing Berlin the West Berlin fashion industry lost thousands of its seamstresses. Those who came daily from East Berlin to work in the garment industry were cut off by the wall.

Now the industry is campaigning to persuade housewives, especially those over 40 whose children are grown, to work for four or five hours daily. They can either have work sent to them at home or come to the fashion houses to use semi - automatic sewing machines. So far 800 women have taken the part time jobs.

Life Span Of Possessions Prolonged By Proper Care

GREENVILLE, S.C. (UPI) — The washing machine clogs—and you want to chew logs.

A wash-and-wear shirt falls apart. You wonder: how come? The maker's supposed to be smart.

Or—expensive linoleum starts cracking and it sets you to yapping. "They make things so poorly these days."

When such crises occur on the homefront, the best course is to clear yourself before blaming a manufacturer, says Dr. Frederick T. Lense.

Research and development director of a firm that makes cleaning and laundry products he maintains that what you use to take care of your possessions has a lot to do with their life span.

The development of bleaches, fabric softeners and cleaners of all kinds that prolong the life of articles is more than a laboratory job for the scientist from Texize Chemicals Inc.

In the course of testing, he does homework — washing dishes and walls, cleaning floors. He's even done the family laundry as part of his research.

His wife, a bacteriologist before marriage, is an expert in the disinfectant field.

"When I test in this area at home," Dr. Lense said, "I don't pooh-pooh her suggestions."

Dr. Lense noted that ideas for new products are based on necessity.

Women, according to the scientist, must be ready to accept a new concept in a product.

Although controlled-suds laundry detergents have been on the market for 18 years, for example, many women still resist them.

"All tests," Dr. Lense reported, "indicate that one gets a better wash with controlled suds, and they certainly prevent machines from clogging—but these detergents still account for only 10 per cent of laundry product sales."

In World War II, members of more than 30 individual religious bodies were listed as conscientious objectors.

Red Chinese Developing Road Into Laos, Thailand

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN

HONG KONG (UPI)—It takes four days to make the 300-mile drive by car from the South China city of Kunming of World War II Burma Road fame to the little town of Yungchinghung.

The route, according to recent Chinese newspaper accounts, passes through deep valleys and gorges where little villages inhabited by Meo, Yao, Thai and other tribespeople cling to the mountainsides.

In the shops hangs the portrait of Mao Tse-tung. Government buildings, such as they are, bear slogans proclaiming the benefits of the Thai autonomous region under whose jurisdiction the district falls in the Communist Chinese scheme of things.

It appears a peaceable enough scene, certainly.

The significance of the road from Kunming to Yungchinghung, built by the Communists within the last decade over a former horse path, is that this is the route over which any Chinese Communist armed thrust into Laos and Thailand would have to be mounted.

Road Is Extended

Even farther south from Yungchinghung, where the mountains of Yunnan Province form the border with Burma and Laos and overlook nearby Thailand, this road has not been extended by the Chinese well inside Laos by an agreement with the neutralist Vientiane government.

All in all, the picture is enough to worry Western military planners. From the important Kunming junction, where roads from Lashio in Burma and the Red River Valley in North Viet Nam join up with Communist China's main road network, the Chinese now have practicable land routes into non-Communist territory, just as they do across the Himalayas into India.

From the southern most Yunnan town of Meng La, Chinese-built roads in the past year have inched their way into Phong Saly, Nam Tha and Muong Sing, linking Laos for the first time by vehicle communication with its huge northern neighbor.

The Peking regime established the Thai autonomous region in Yunnan in 1953, mainly as part of a nationwide policy of gradually absorbing the country's myriad of minority tribespeople but granting them a measure of autonomy in the meantime in order to enlist their sympathy.

The 10th anniversary of the founding of the region was considered important enough for Peking to dispatch several high-ranking party men in charge of directing the communists' policies towards the mountain tribespeople to attend an observance in Yungchinghung earlier this year.

The celebrations were addressed by the region's governor, Chaot Tsun Hsin, himself a member of the Thai minority, who said that over the past 10 years the Communist Party had trained more than 1,300 party workers (cadres) from the 14 tribes inhabiting the region and today the majority of government functionaries in the region are minority tribesmen.

Western observers believe that at least some of these newly trained cadres may be being readied by Peking for assignments in Southeast Asian countries having minorities of tribesmen.

Thailand, especially, has been the focus of attention by Peking for clandestine anti-government radio broadcasts. One such station, identifying itself as the "Voice of the Thai People," is believed to be situated in Communist - controlled territory of Laos.

The roads which the Chinese have just built into Laos, and which have their source at Kunming, have added a further element of threat to the Thailand government.

Deafness Is On Increase

CHICAGO (UPI) — An ear expert says deafness is rising in the United States as a result of an increased number of older people and various complexities of modern life.

Dr. Francis L. Lederer, of the University of Illinois Medical School, says causes of reduced hearing function "include noisier industries, interest in body contact sports, swimming, hunting and air travel, especially when traveling with a head cold or nasal allergy."

"Hearing problems can often start before birth," he said, "so early detection of hearing problems is essential."

A physician must be aware of the psychological, as well as the medical difficulties which may be encountered, said Lederer.

Children with a permanent hearing loss can be taught to communicate "with relative ease in a hearing world," he said.

The effectiveness of a hearing aid requires more than physical preparation of the patient, according to Lederer.

"Before the patient can accept the hearing aid, he must have accepted his hearing loss," he said.

Czechoslovakia Feels The Heel

Czechoslovakia a few years ago was a showplace of Communism. The Czechs were poor by Western standards, but they were better off economically than their neighboring Soviet satellites. Today Czechoslovakia is one of the poorer satellites and heading rapidly for further internal upheavals.

The Czechs, once so prosperous they carried on the most extensive foreign aid program within the Soviet empire, recently had to call on Moscow for a promise to ship 8,000 tons of meat and 2,000 tons of butter "to help us in our difficulties," as President Novotny put it.

In recent weeks two top Communist Party officials have been purged in Czechoslovakia Students from African and Arab states — two regions wooed by Czech aid—have been beaten by Prague mobs incensed that staples they are denied should continue to be shipped to undeveloped countries.

President Novotny is in increasing trouble with his Kremlin superiors as the economy of Czechoslovakia continues to falter, and he finds it more difficult to evade growing criticism of his part in the Stalinist era. The fact is, a number of Kremlin showplaces have quietly slipped out of the limelight as their economies were wafted over the horizon and sank in a morass of inefficiency and bureaucratic quarreling.

If there were anyone left in the world for the Communists to try to impress with their system, the Kremlin would have trouble putting together enough pieces to produce an exhibit of any stature.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Trying To Do Everything

Never, in the history of the human race, have governments tried to do so much for people as in these frightening middle years of the Twentieth Century. And never has there been such turmoil and inability to govern.

Whether there is a vital connection between the two sets of facts is something that cannot be proved scientifically; history, unlike a laboratory experiment, cannot be run over again. But men used to think that there were things a government should do and things that it should leave to private individuals and voluntary associations.

For example, Adam Smith, the Eighteenth Century political economist, thought that the city or the State should limit its role to providing cleanliness and safety, protecting people against such hazards as theft, murder, legal injustices, foreign invasion, traffic accidents, fires and epidemic diseases. Cheapness or plenty, said Smith, could best be left to the business enterpriser, once a clean and safe state had been established.

We don't as a people believe in such a hard-and-fast division of social labors anymore. The State thinks it can provide cheap and plentiful goods by mixing in the economic process at a thousand points. It builds big dams, extends its own rural electrification into urban regions, offers a food-stamp plan to the hungry, underwrites all sorts of make-work projects, lets people stay on relief rolls even when jobs are to be had, and gives subsidies of many kinds to businesses and favored economic blocs.

Now, since it is a law of sociology that customs are slow to change, only the most doctrinaire conservatives think that the wildly splurging Welfare State could be dismantled overnight. It takes time, patience, and careful organization to alter any climate of opinion. But the likelihood that the State will keep on trying to do a million things for millions of people does not mean that it will ever succeed in doing any of them well. And one of these days it may possibly occur to a voting majority that Mr. Dooley, the Irish-American sage, was right when he said of the State-worshipping Napoleon, "He tried to do too much and did it."

The soundness of this columnist's observations about the incompetence of the supposedly omnicompetent government might be tested by a look at our big cities. They are receiving all sorts of aid from the federal government. Blocks of slums are ripped down and built up again; relief is provided unto the second and third generation of relief claimants. There is subsidized low rent housing, and even State supported middle-income housing. Yet, with Washington, D.C., taking the lead in the effort to supply "cheapness or plenty" to the populations of modern cities, our urban wilderness get less clean and less safe all the time.

Take New York City, for example. Just a few days ago the Park Association of New York made public the results of a survey of what citizens would like to have in their parks. The people whom the Park Association questioned turned in the most anguished sort of answers. The parks, it turns out, are nowhere near as safe as the Congo when the UN and Tshombe were locked in bitter struggle. Robbers and muggers make them useless to strollers at night. Even by day people in the parks are annoyed by sex deviates or endangered by young ball players and bicycle riders who abide by no known rules of sportsmanship. As for dirt, there is the endless drift of windblown paper and, worse than this, some extremely voracious rats.

So, in the parks, the city cannot provide cleanliness and safety. The New York City Commissioner of Parks, Mr. Newbold Morris, is a competent and humane man, a sports lover who spends hours making the circuit of tennis courts, municipal golf links, and all the other facilities which the city provides. But he can't police and clean the parks all by himself. In the days before the big State-supported housing developments banished watchful shopkeepers from streets adjacent to parks and public squares, the coming and going of a variegated crowd of shoppers and window gazers resulted in a good deal of self-policing. But these days have passed.

It could be that government, in trying to be everything to everybody instead of doing a couple of things well, is making the world a jungle.

How Important Is It To Be First On The Moon?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Is it worth while to spend $20 to $40 billion of borrowed money just to get a man to the moon, while neglecting necessary projects on earth?

This is one of the questions which the American people will be asked to decide in the Presidential election in 1964. The Republican Party in Congress has drawn up a document arguing the merits of the question. It says:

"The question is not then, whether man will ultimately reach the moon and beyond. The question is rather, how shall it be done, and whether other aspects of human needs should be bypassed or overlooked in the one spasmodic effort to achieve a lunar landing at once.

"Space exploration must and will come. But what priority should be applied to it in the total national effort? The decision of priorities must be made on the basis of over-all benefit to the free world and not on the adolescent desire to beat the Russians in a space race."

In these days when the public-debt limit is being raised to $309 billion and when the Treasury deficits are estimated to run about $12 billion a year, there are still many other demands on the pocketbooks of the taxpayers. These arguments will be pointed out in the coming campaign. The comprehensive memorandum on this subject, prepared by a staff of specialists under the direction of Senator Bourke Hickenlooper, Republican of Iowa, raised such questions as these:

"Is it more important to have a man on the moon than to conquer cancer which will take the lives of 40 million Americans now living?

"Is lunar exploration more important to mankind than freeing ourselves from the tragic chains of mental illness, which now accounts for one of every four American hospital beds?

"Is a fistful of lunar dust meaningful to the 17 million Americans who are told go to bed hungry each night?

"Is a pathway to the moon more vital than a highway system devoid of the slaughter which now claims 40 thousand lives annually?

"Is seeing the other side of the moon more important than seeing our children free of leukemia?

"Is being there first more important than insuring an adequate water source for our great metropolitan centers?

"Is putting a man on the moon more important than developing techniques for making use of our stored natural resources?

"Is manned lunar flight of more value than bringing order to a world of emerging nations?"

The specialists argue that a propaganda triumph over the Soviets is not worth the $40 billion it may cost. The project of the administration is to place three astronauts on the moon before the end of this decade, but the critics say this will be of momentary value only. It is being argued that the so-called military advantages are negligible and that the advances in science can be made much more cheaply by research on earth.

As for missiles placed on the moon, they would have to be aimed at the earth, which is 240,000 miles away, and with little chance of accuracy. Scientists say the cost of such a missile would be a thousand times more than a missile located on the earth. By the end of fiscal year 1964, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will have spent $8.6 billion on the moon project, and the total cost is estimated at around $20 billion, with the possibility of its going as high as $40 billion.

In contrast to these huge expenditures, the memorandum sponsored by Senator Hickenlooper points out that the money could be much more usefully expended, and says:

"It has been estimated that 40 million Americans now alive will die of cancer. . . .

"The fiscal 1964 federal budget for cancer research totals $145 million. This is equivalent to the cost of four Saturn V rocket motors. Each of these motors will flame for two minutes and then be forever lost. . . .

"For fiscal 1964 mental health programs in the National Institutes of Health will receive $190 million. This is equivalent to the rocket motors alone for six Saturns to be used eventually to put three men on the moon.

"Each year in the United States alone 900,000 persons die of heart diseases.

"There are 10 million Americans now suffering from some form of heart disease. . . . The fiscal 1964 budget for the National Heart Institute is $133 million, the equivalent of three or four Saturn rocket firings with a total useful life of eight minutes."

The idea of placing a man on the moon is not opposed, but the question raised is when and how and at what expense. The document further states:

"Summing up, opponents to a $20 billion to $40 billion crash lunar program maintain that the arguments for such a program are either specious or not important. They do say that eventually man, if he follows an orderly and logical course, will reach the moon. However, they contend that there is no hurry and that it would be a lot less costly, and far greater values would accrue to mankind, if we take it easy and try to accomplish our ultimate purpose step by step."

There is one important point which will be widely discussed. Supposing the Soviets really try to get to the moon ahead of us? The answer being made to this is that it would cost the Soviet government tremendous sums, and might be the very thing that would break the Communist hold on the Russian people. For the Soviets are greatly in need of expenditures for public welfare, and, if the Soviet government diverts huge sums for a race to the moon, this is likely to hasten its downfall.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

ANNUAL HEADACHE — The annual tourist invasion of Washington is on in full force and some of the outlandish attire being worn by the outlanders is again deeply distressing to Capitol Hill regulars. They come in all varieties of shorts, slacks and sport shirts, and neither size nor decorum seems to inhibit the tourist on his appointed capital rounds.

Some legislators want to do something about it, like specifying the kinds of clothing that must be worn to enter the capital buildings. But constituent minded members demur, not knowing what voters they may offend, and unwilling to take any chances.

The situation reminds Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of New York of a story which he insists has its basis in fact:

On a hot day last year, tourists were lined up to enter the Senate Gallery. "Take a look at the little character in front of me with the poodle cut and the blue jeans," said an elderly man in the line to the person behind him. "Is it a boy or a girl?" The person addressed responded indignantly, "It's a girl. I ought to know. She's my daughter!"

Somewhat sheepishly, the old fellow replied, "Forgive me, sir. I never dreamed you were her father." "I'm not," said the slacks-clad parent. "I'm her mother."

In a more serious vein, some legislators believe the Capitol, the White House, and for that matter, the other buildings and national shrines in Washington deserve more respect by visitors than is being accorded them.

Strange Case Of Triple Anniversary Reactions

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

The mind plays strange tricks on the body. An excellent example, concerning an elderly woman, appeared in a recent issue of the Annuals of Internal Medicine. Every Aug. 29, for 38 years, she had developed hay fever which lasted 21 days and then cleared. These bouts consisted of fever, tearing of the eyes, nasal congestion and cough.

But that was not all. For 20 years she also experienced a four day siege of diarrhea every mid-July. In addition, a rash appeared on her arms every March that lasted three to five weeks. The eruption had recurred like clockwork since 1951 and always cleared up spontaneously.

When this woman's puzzling story was fitted together it was obvious she was suffering from three anniversary reactions involving the respiratory tract, the intestine, and the skin. This term is used because the illnesses recurred at the same time each year. An emotional upset is the usual cause of anniversary reactions.

When Dr. James H. Earls and Dr. Stewart Wolf questioned the woman, they found that her husband had been killed in 1919, leaving her with two sons and a daughter. Three years later she fell in love with a married man who resembled her dead husband but on Aug. 29, 1924, he left her to return to his wife. This rejection precipitated an episode of weeping and a nasal discharge that marked the beginning of the hay fever of 38 years duration.

She consulted an osteopath 17 years later for her hay fever bouts and became infatuated with him. In mid-July of the next year he was killed in an auto accident. Shortly thereafter, diarrhea made its debut. In 1949 she sought medical aid from a depressed, elderly physician who was drinking too much and going downhill. She tried to help him but he died in March of 1951. Shortly thereafter she received an injection of penicillin and developed a skin reaction. This was the initial appearance of the rash.

Her present physicians believe that her husband's death made this woman emotionally insecure and that each attempt to maintain the family as a unit led to further damage to her security. I suppose we never will know how the mind produced these three common symptoms with extraordinary regularity.

HEADACHES AND LEISURE

J. M. writes: I've always had headaches but they are more frequent since I broke my leg recently. Do you think sitting around doing nothing is responsible?

REPLY

Yes, provided the headache is caused by tension or frustration.

ANEURYSM?

G. L. B. writes: A friend told me her cousin is in the hospital with a mannerism. What kind of a disease is this?

REPLY

I don't know, but it sounds like a doozie.

LUMBAGO

H. F. writes: Is there anything I can do to keep from getting two or three attacks of lumbago every year? This has been happening for about fve years.

REPLY

Strengthen the muscles of the back, if you are positive about the diagnosis.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Morris Fishbein tells of a man who bought his wife a piano for Christmas, but by Valentine's Day had persuaded her to switch to a clarinet. "How come?" asked a friend. "Well," was the explanation, "when she's playing the clarinet, she can't sing."

"I had a young half-back on my team once," recalls Football Coach Jack Curtice, "who was so darn fast he always was drawing undeserved penalties for being illegally in motion. I finally told one official that if he'd concentrate his attention on the boy he'd realize he started so fast he gave the illusion of jumping the gun, but really wasn't at all. On the very next play, the penalty whistle blew again. 'He wasn't in motion,' I screamed from the sidelines. 'Agreed,' called back the official. 'The penalty is on the rest of the team for delaying the game.'"

Kennedy Doesn't Think He Missed Boat In Dealing With Khrushchev

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy was bluntly asked by a group of callers the other day whether he had not missed the boat in not taking advantage of Khrushchev's friendly overtures to the United States after the Cuban crisis.

The question came up in connection with Pope John's Easter Encyclical "Peace on Earth" in which he advocated a policy of coexistence with the Communist world.

The President's reply was that there "may be something to the argument that those who sooner or later replace Mr. Khrushchev may be much tougher to deal with.

"But we simply cannot give Mr. K certain things in order to strengthen his personal position in the Soviet Union or the Bloc, because to do so would involve diplomatic surrender on the part of the United States—on Berlin for instance—even though I have serious reservations about the survival of the human race if we continue to experience a series of crises any one of which could explode into nuclear war.

"There is no doubt a limit to the number of crises that can be endured without accident or miscalculation," the President continued earnestly, "and we can all make miscalculations — causing nuclear weapons to become active —with the consequences that I am sure justify my reservations about the survival of humanity.

"But I just do not see how we can be expected to make arrangements with Mr. Khrushchev on any one of a number of questions —test ban, Berlin, disarament, and so forth—easier as he may be to deal with than others in his camp, the Chinese certainly — when these arrangements would amount to diplomatic defeat or serious compromise on our part.

"And it seems evident that the only kind of settlement which would strengthen Mr. Khrushchev personally in the Bloc," concluded Kennedy, "would be a settlement representing surrender by us of certain vital interests relating to our national security."

Is JFK Right?

Some State Department advisers don't agree with the President on this point. They point out that after the Cuban crisis, the U. S. ambassador, Foy Kohler, reported that Khrushchev was on top as far as the Red Army was concerned. Then followed his overtures to Washington which were rebuffed. In recent weeks the American embassy has reported that the Red Army generals and the hard line are back on top.

Fidel Castro even made the remark at a Moscow reception that Khrushchev always had a baby-sitter with him—Marshal Malinovsky, Minister of Defense, who always sat in on conversations between Khrushchev and Castro.

Some U. S. military experts and scientists also argue that minor concessions such as fewer nuclear inspections on Soviet soil would not have jeopardized U. S. security, inasmuch as underground testing, the only issue involved, is confined, cumbersome, and expensive.

They do agree that bargaining with Khrushchev will now be far more difficult. He is no longer completely in the driver's seat.

Milestone In Kentucky

While national and international attention was focused on the police dogs and water hoses of Birmingham, a very quiet and little noticed vote took place in the office of Mayor William Cowger of Louisville which illustrated the fact that bloodshed gets more headlines than brotherhood.

Louisville has undergone its racial unrest and misunderstanding in the past. But last year, Louisville city leaders called together Negro leaders and proposed an experiment in trust and understanding. Out of this came an eleven-member commission on human relations which worked for several months on voluntary integration, with reasonable success.

Finally, however, Mayor Cowger decided that an anti-bias statue should be adopted; and this month, almost simultaneously with the riots in Birmingham, the Board of Aldermen adopted it into law. The vote was 8 to 2, with one alderman abstaining and one out of town.

"Outside of Kentucky," says Mayor Cowger, "our progress is not news because it is good news."

Note—Mayor Cowger is the first Republican mayor of Louisville in forty years. Simultaneously, Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky, another Republican, was beating the Kennedy administration to the punch by introducing a civil rights bill in the Senate. Most Republicans in the Deep South have adopted the line of the White Citizens Councils, but Republican moderates are urging that it will not be difficult to swing the large bloc of Negro votes away from Kennedy if the GOP follows the lead of Mayor Cowger and Sen. Cooper of Kentucky.

Sen. Abe Ribicoff (D-Conn) is working behind the scenes to strip the Agriculture Department of its authority to regulate insect sprays and pesticides. Ribicoff, who used to be Secretary of HEW, has warned privately that it's a mistake to leave pesticide controls in the hands of officials who are more interested in protecting crops than safeguarding health. . . . . The shoving-around of news photographers during John Glenn's visit to Capitol Hill was not repeated when Astronaut Gordon Cooper addressed Congress. The burly and officious guards who surrounded Glenn were significantly missing from Cooper's "security" coterie. Observed Dev O'Neill, Democratic National Committee photographer, to Sargent Shriver of the Peace Corps: "Your brother-in-law, the President, doesn't have many more secret service men around him when he goes somewhere than the NASA guards around an astronaut.

Titled Bit Player

By John Crosby

ROME

The status of aristocracy all over Europe is changing. More and more of them, both the rich ones and the poor ones, are slipping into some aspect of show business, or some other kind of leisure activity.

In France, Baron Edmond de Rothschild buys mountains to put ski resorts on. In England, the Duke of Bedford has turned Woburn Abbey into a vast pleasure dome. Even the Duke of Marlborough is letting the yokels into Blenheim, charging them so much a head. (He told a reporter he thought it was good for the lower classes to see really good things.)

In Rome, ex-Queen Soraya is essaying a movie career, and any number of impecunious "principessas," counts, and barons hire out as ballroom extras in the movies and are happy to get the work. The other day I had lunch with Comte Andre Esterhazy, a member of one of the most princely families of Europe which once owned most of Hungary, and who now earns a living as a bit player in the movies.

This is a real turn of the wheel, because the Esterhazys in their glory were great patrons of actors. Esterhaz, the Hungarian Versailles, which was the principal seat of the family, has its own 500-seat theater and its own opera house, all of it behind the iron curtain now. The conductor and court musician was Joseph Haydn. (Haydn wrote the "Farewell Symphony," in which the musicians extinguish their candles and leave the stage, at another of the Esterhazy castles, Eisenstadt, as a gentle hint to Prince Esterhazy that he was overstaying his leave in the country and that the musicians wanted to get back to their wives in Vienna. The Prince got the massage and left for town the next day.)

Count Esterhazy, a charming, courtly man, much in demand at Roman parties, told me that one of his great difficulties is that no one can believe that an Esterhazy, a member of one of the richest families in Europe, could be broke. (Not all of them are. Some Esterhazys are still pretty rich, but most of the family lands, including Andre's, are behind the iron curtain.)

I asked him how he got started in the movies. "In 1952, Billy Wilder was shooting 'Roman Holiday' in Rome. He wanted someone to play the secretary in Audrey Hepburn's embassy and he offered me the part." I can see why. Count Esterhazy, who was a Hungarian diplomat before this Communist unpleasantness threw him out of work, looks very much at home in embassies and court functions.

"After that," he said, smiling, "I just kept going. In '55 Days to Peking' I was the Hungarian ambassador. It took me 11 years to be promoted from embassy secretary to ambassador." In between he has played 30 bit parts, ranking from Chinese wrestler to master of ceremonies at the Vatican in "The Cardinal," his last role.

I asked him why it was that he didn't have a little money stashed away in Swiss banks when the Communists took Hungary. "The Esterhazys have never done that," he said. "For 500 years the family has always helped to put the country on its heels after disaster has struck. When Hungary was chopped to pieces after the first World War, we stayed on and used our money to get the country back on its heels. To have put money in foreign banks would be considered high treason. You'd have been blackballed by the other members of the club."

I told him I thought he seemed to be a very happy man. He shrugged. "Life goes on. You have to go on living, you know. You have got to send help to your family. I am trying to put my nephew and niece who are at school in Munich on their heels.

"I'm not the first actor in the family, either," he added. He showed me a picture of a lovely girl, an illustration from a book. "My great-grandmother, Countess Rossi. Her stage name was Harriet Sontag and she was a famous opera singer 100 years ago. If she could do that, why should I try to act?"

I said that nobility in Europe who were down on their luck seemed to be gravitating toward show business. Why?

"They don't know how to do anything else," he said. "The aristocracy was trained in diplomacy, art, and politics. They weren't prepared for any kind of serious money-making. Money was a rude subject in my younger days. It was taken for granted one would always have money, so why talk about it? Still, the Hungarian aristocrats have been quite clever at earning a living at art, decoration, and public relations since the war. I have a cousin, Countess Lilly Esterhazy, who is a great high fashion expert here in Rome."

He stirred his coffee placidly, the image of serenity. I could well understand why he had trouble convincing people he was penniless. He looks too content to be broke.

"I honestly enjoy movies very much," he said, smiling. "I have probably less worries without the estates than I had with them. The only worry is my old age. What am I going to do then?"

'Henrietta,' Bantam Hen, Hatches Peeps For Pupils

Mother Nature proved to a group of local second graders that she is more dependable than artificial devices.

The pupils of Mrs. Mary Marple at Gephart School 21 days ago started a bantam hen, named "Henrietta," sitting on five eggs.

At the same time, they had an electric incubator with a dozen eggs in their experiment to see how peeps are hatched.

At the end of three weeks, Henrietta with her built-in "warmer" and patience, produced four bantam chicks.

But during that period when local power circuits went off for two hours, the eggs in the incubator got cool and the artificial brood was lost.

The experiment began in the classroom when the children were studying poultry farms. A "coop" for Henrietta was provided by Robert L. Popp, Bedford Road, the father of Robert Popp, a class member.

The first-class quarters for the setting hen were neatly made of plywood and wire, and so fixed that the children could observe "Henrietta" at all times.

Now that she has her little brood, "Henrietta" is being taken to a farm home near Cumberland where she will raise them into full-fledged "banties."

The children kept a daily record of "Henrietta" from the time she arrived for her setting chores until she left.

The bantam hen was the subject of many stories written by the second graders from their observations of her stint on the nest.

Fort Hill Seniors Hold Final Assembly Program

The senior class of Fort Hill High School presented the annual Senior Farewell Assembly program yesterday in the school auditorium. Under the direction of Beverly Brown and Judy Giles, the program was written by a class committee with Jerry Belt as chairman.

Titled "Devil or Angel," the program depicted the trials and tribulations of the class from the time its members entered school in 1951 until their graduation.

The main theme was the attempt of forces to get the class into "Heaven" and fighting off the attempts of the devil to drag them below. The devil was portrayed by Terry Williams, and St. Peter by Jerry Belt.

Dances were staged by Beverly Brown, Judy Giles, Judy Nee and Lois Piper, with the music furnished by the school's Dance Band under the direction of William Hartung.

After the play, the robe of the president of the senior class was moved from the shoulders of Beverly Murray, president of the class of 1963, and placed on Charles Sibley, newly-elected president of the class of 1964.

A highlight of the program was the exchange of seats by the Junior Class and the Senior Class. As the seniors moved from their seats and took places along the walls of the auditorium, the junior class moved into the vacated seats.

The ancient Omans started the custom of docking a dog's tail. They believed that all the evil of the animal can be found in his tail.

'Get-Out-Vote' Urged Tuesday At LaVale

The importance of getting out the vote in Tuesday's referendum in LaVale on a fire tax was emphasized in meetings this week in meetings of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department with members of the Citizens Committee of that community that is supporting the firemen in their drive to achieve a majority of favorable votes.

Transportation will be provided any qualified voter on Tuesday by volunteers from LaVale which has grown rapidly in size in the past ten years to become the second largest populated area in Allegany County.

LaVale has approximately 1,600 residences and as the fire department is limited to 50 active members the annual task of soliciting each home for funds to maintain equipment has grown out of hand for the firemen, it was pointed out.

The Citizens Committee, backed by most civic organizations of LaVale, feels that a vote "for" the referendum will bring about the most equitable method of obtaining the money to keep the departmental standards up to meet the specifications set by the Maryland Fire Rating Bureau.

Failure to keep equipment up to standards would bring about a higher fire insurance rates, the committee claims.

LaVale's present rate is nine cents per $100 which is Class C. The cost for $10,000 of insurance is $9 per year.

Insufficient funds to keep the department's rating would drop LaVale back to Class D, which costs $12.60 for each $10,000, the Citizens Committee declared.

The Maryland Fire Rating Bureau could in the foreseeable future drop LaVale back to unprotected class, which would mean a fire insurance premium of $18 per year on a $10,000 property, the Citizens Committee yesterday stated.

The workers to get a "for" vote pointed out that the fire tax to the individual property owner would be negligible when it is weighed against his annual savings in fire insurance due to the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department keeping a first class company.

Members of the Citizens Committee include Thomas Burton, LaVale real estate developer; Mrs. J. G. Corl, editor of the Suburbanite; C. A. Lancaster, former chairman of the LaVale Zoning Board, and others.

Hiking Is Popular Pastime For Folks In Netherlands

By MURRAY J. BROWN
United Press International

The American tourist who enjoys strolling through the countryside can find plenty of company in the Netherlands.

For in that country on the North Sea, famed for its tulips, windmills and dikes, hiking is almost as much a national pastime as baseball is in the United States.

And each year, according to the Netherlands National Tourist office, the ranks are swelled by more participants from other countries around the world, including the United States.

Distance, not speed, is the main objective in the Dutch walks. The hikers try to cover a specified distance each day and stick it out to the end.

The Dutch say, however, that many tourists join in for a day or two to stretch their legs and get a leisurely closeup look at the countryside and the people. Spectators are welcomed, too, and there are numerous inns and roadside restraurants where they can sip cool drinks while watching the hike.

Also spaced along the route of march are Red Cross stations to treat blisters, corns and bunions and other minor ailments.

Most famous of the marches is the Nijmegan "Vierdaagse" July 23-26, now in its 47th year. More than 15,000 took part in the 1962 four-day hike.

Anyone 12 years or older can take part and it is not unusual to see 80-year-old grandmothers and grandfathers stepping along with the younger hikers. Marchers try to cover a specified distance within a time limit of usually 11 hours. Young men aim for 34 miles a day; older men and women try for 25 miles and the very young and the very old shoot for 18 miles.

Each day the hikers leave Nijmegen and return at night. But each day they take a different route. On the final day, spectators line the roads to shower flowers on the hardy ones who have stuck it out the four days and earned prize commemorative ribbons.

Another four day march, also from July 23-26, is held at Apeldoorn. Here hikers are separated by ages into three classes and cover different distances: 30 miles per day for men 21-50; 24 miles for youths 17-20, women 17-50 and men 51-70; and 18 miles for boys and girls 15-16, women 51-70, and men 71-75.

Each group leaves at a different time each morning. The route leads through the town of Apeldoorn, often called the "largest garden city in Netherlands," and winds through the picturesque woods and countryside dotted with 12th century churches and a castle or two. There is a big festival at the conclusion of the four-day event.

Newest and toughest of the marches is the Hook of Holland to Den Helder trek, a distance of about 90 miles, from July 29 to August 3. The hikers camp out during the march along the beaches with the sea on the left and the dunes on the right. The route passes the biggest locks in the world at Ijmuiden. To make it easier on the hikers, automobiles carry their equipment to the overnight camping sites.

Last but not least is the "airborne March," commemorating the Allied paratroop landings at Arnheim in September 1944. A one-day march held on Sept. 14, hikers follow the route of the troops from Arnheim through the woods of the Veluwe zone and across the battlefields of World War II. Distances range from 6 to 9 miles for children 10-13 to 21 miles for anyone 14 years and older.

Buskirk Pigeon Wins Flight From Indiana

Hogie from the Woodland Loft of Irvin Buskirk won the fifth old bird race of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club, a 500-mile flight from Vicennes, Ind., in which 65 birds from seven lofts competed.

Club officials said the race was a hard and slow one because of unfavorable weather conditions including overcast skies, rain en route and a heavy fog the last 100 miles. One loft had no birds to report from the race.

The winning pigeon averaged 797.78 yards per minute. Mr. Buskirk's loft also had the second place finisher, Stormy, averaging 754.27 yards per minute.

Other birds reported included Derby from the Excello Loft of M. M. Green, third, 750.82 yards per minute; Edna M. from Town View Loft of Galen Beeman, fourth, 745.36 yards; Sandy, also from Town View Loft, fifth 709.36 yards; Anything, from Wing Ridge Loft of R. I. Spiker, sixth, 707.13 yards; Thor from Pear Alley Loft of J. H. Sweitzer, seventh, 661.81 yards; Odd Eyes from MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith, eighth, 640.74 yards, and Red Spot, also from MacArthur Loft, ninth, 637.71 yards.

The next race will be a 300-mile flight Sunday from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Circus Fan Can Hardly Wait For June 14

There's at least one person in the area who would be willing to hock his car to go to the Hamid-Morton Circus at the Cumberland Fairgrounds next month.

Well, hocking his car might be a little extreme, but it would match the enthusiasm this gentleman has for the circus and circus people.

When Hamid-Morton's three-ring thrill show comes to Cumberland Fairgrounds in mid-June (June 14, 15 and 16), under the auspices of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, a fellow answering to the name of Albert William Thomas will be among the first in line to get in.

Al is a member of quite a selective organization, his application having been approved several years ago for membership in "Circus Fans of America." Thomas was talked into joining by another top-notch circus buff, his brother, the late Wade Thomas, former West Virgina fire marshal..

Al, in fact, was the only resident of the entire tri-state area known to be a member of Circus Fans until recently when magician Isaac Stern was transferred to Cumberland to manage a clothing store.

Thomas has a deep resepect and a warm feeling for the circus, its people, and their acts. Circus Fans would inconvenience themselves at any length to promote the betterment of the circus.

Al became a member of the rather "exclusive" organization seven years ago. A regular recipient of "White Tops," the national circus magazine, he will travel to any reasonable distance to see a circus. Just recently he traveled to Washington when Ringling Brothers had its big show there. While in the nation's capital he met and talked with many performers and renewed acquaintances with others.

Thomas has met some of the biggest names in circus entertainment and tells some interesting anecdotes about some, too.

Once, while a circus was playing in Cumberland, Thomas became friendly with a performing couple. The performers were married between shows here and Thomas, always with his camera, snapped the only pictures of their wedding and forwarded them to the grateful newlyweds.

Has he ever met anybody connected with the Hamid-Morton three-ring show? "No," Al said thoughtfully, "not that I know of but that circus has become one of the best going."

In his circus travels Al has read about and has heard a lot of talk of one Hamid-Morton act in particular. "Dieter Tasso," he said, "certainly ranks as one of the best slack-wire artists. Some say he's the best."

Speaking with more than ordinary knowledge, Al added, "As a rule, circuses change their personnel fairly often to keep the show new and interesting, and I understand the Hamid-Morton circus is even more fantastic in this respect. If George Hamid needs new acts, he goes anywhere to find them. Many of his performers this year come from Europe."

Thomas intends to spend as much time as possible around the circus, and he admitted if he could, he would sit through all six performances on all three days.

Deputies Learn Science

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles District Attorney's office has begun training some of its deputies in the medical sciences to improve their ability to handle certain types of criminal cases.

District Atty. William B. McKesson said the establishment of a Mediocolegal Section of his office was made after complete studies both in this country and in Europe.

"This is a totally new function for a prosecutor in the United States," McKesson said. "In many European countries lawyers specializing in legal medicine are effectively contributing to the judicial processes in the administration of criminal justice."

McKesson said that only recently has the American legal system begun to produce attorneys trained in the medical sciences.

The district attorney said the Medicolegal Section will handle, either directly or through assisting other deputies, difficult cases involving medical sciences. He said these specialists would work from the investigative stages of a case through the trials.

The experts also will maintain liaison with hospitals, crime laboratories of police agencies and the coroner's office.

McKesson said the value of the Medicolegal Section probably would not immediately be understood by the public.

"It is common knowledge that 75 per cent of the civil cases which are tried in Los Angeles County involve medical evidence," he said.

"But people do not realize that some crimes may go unrecognized and offenders escape punishment unless such cases are handled by a lawyer who is an expert in legal medicine and scientific evidence."

Union To Vote On New Contract

Two membership meetings have been scheduled by Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, AFL-CIO, to act on ratification of the remaining issues of the pact.

James Stein, union president, said workers at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant on the first and third shifts voted yesterday while workers on the second shift will cast their votes Friday at 9 a. m.

Stein said the new pact follows the industry wage pattern with nine cents an hour increase on June 10 and an additional eight cents an hour starting June 8, 1964. There are also the various fringe benefits which have been bettered, Stein stated.

Electrocution Cuts Navy Career Short

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—A Williamsburg youth scheduled to graduate next week from the U.S. Naval Academy was electrocuted late Tuesday when the model airplane he was flying came in contact with high voltage power lines.

Richard R. Bryant, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Bryant of Williamsburg, was pronounced dead at the scene by a medical examiner. Resuscitation attempts were futile.

End Engine Making

NEW YORK (UPI — Seagrave Corp. is planning to divest itself of its original business - making fire engines, Chairman Arnold A. Saltzman told the annual meeting Tuesday.

The fire fighting equipment division consists of the Seagrave plant at Columbus, Ohio, and the Maxim motors plant at Middleboro, Mass.

Saltzman said the business is profitable, but less so than Seagrave's newer activities in building materials, leather and paints.

Fatal Boating Accidents Reported Down Last Year

By JACK WOLISTON

As another season of pleasure boating gets under way in most of the United States, it is interesting to note that accidents and fatalities in the sport declined in 1962 despite a huge increase in the number of participants.

The U.S. Coast Guard's annual report for the year showed there were 3,139 accidents reported to it in 1962, compared with 3,282 in 1961, a drop of 143. The known fatality figure for 1962 was 1,114, a drop of 104 from the 1,218 deaths reported in 1961.

Of special interest was the Coast Guard's findings that of 529 persons who perished in the water last year, 441 had no life-saving devices. On the other hand of 166 persons in peril who had life-saving devices, 98 were rescued.

The report also showed that the number of registrations made by the Coast Guard and the states in 1962 was 3,516,052, compared with 3,085,732 the preceding year, an increase of 431,320.

One of the pioneers of the outboard motor industry died a few weeks ago in Florida at the age of 82. He was Lou Johnson, the eldest of three engineering brothers, whose company has produced more than two million motors since 1921.

Johnson's first interest was inboard engines and he and a brother, Harry, made their first engine from patterns whittled from wood while they were still in their teens. Later they turned to airplanes and bicycle engines before producing their first outboard.

Their first model was a two-cylinder, two-cycle engine which ran at a then phenomenal 2,200 rpm and weighed only 35 pounds. Introduced in December, 1921, the engine was an immediate success and some 3,000 of them were sold the following year.

Their firm was absorbed by the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., in 1936.

The Bermuda Race Committee of the Cruising Club of America has announced that the 1964 Newport, R.I., to Bermuda race will start Saturday, June 20.

The race will be an invitational event, with a fleet of not more than 135 boats, the record number of starters established in 1960.

The race committee also announced the possibility of raising the lower limit of size of eligible boats as a move toward keeping the starting fleet at the 135-boat limit.

One of the newest prizes to be offered in the power boat field is the Charles F. Chapman-Motor Boating Trophy which will be awarded to the boatman logging the shortest over-all time this year from Miami to New York.

Motor Boating magazine said its purpose in donating the trophy, a custom-designed Steuben crystal bowl, was "to stir boat designers and builders to greater efforts, to stimulate activity among boatmen to add color to the boating field and zest to the boating life."

On any outboard motor boat using electronic equipment such as Citizens Band radio, marine radio telephone, depth finder, etc., one of the most useful accessories is a radio noise suppression kit.

Consisting of cable shields and filter networks which are installed on the engine, the noise suppression kit effectively controls most of the annoying static that disrupts performance of electronic equipment.

Annual Incomes Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — About 7 million American families now have annual incomes of more than $10,000—nearly three times the total a decade ago, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

This was the conclusion of the 1963 edition of the board's "A Graphic Guide to Consumer markets."

The guide also finds that these "upper-income families" account for a third of the nation's buying power, whereas, 10 years ago, less than 2.5 million families earned this much and held only a fifth of all buying capacity.

WE'VE ADDED 126 TRILLION

Even in today's fantastic world of figures, you'll have to agree that a trillion is a lot of anything. One trillion is a thousand billion. It looks like this: 1,000,000,000,000.

Today, proven reserves of natural gas in the United States are measured in trillions. They have increased to 273 trillion—a record high. In 1946, the proven reserves were 147 trillion. That means 126 trillion cubic feet in new gas reserves have been added.

Every year, more gas is found in the United States than is used. Natural gas is being discovered in new areas and at new depths. And many parts of the United States and North America have not been explored for gas.

These huge proven reserves—which have been growing larger every year—are your assurance that you will have the comfort, convenience and economy of gas for your homes, schools and industry, for many generations to come.

Country Club Chef To Retire Tomorrow

Nello Caporossi Sr., who is probably better known as "Cappy," will retire as chef at Cumberland Country Club Friday.

"Cappy," who is 67, has been at the country club 15 years with the exception of 18 months when he returned for a visit to his native Italy and three months when he underwent an eye operation.

While his post-retirement plans are indefinite, Caporossi said he would "help out" at CCC when needed.

Born in Montefiascone, Italy, a town about the size of Frostburg located 50 miles north of Rome, "Cappy" came to the United States in 1920.

Just prior to that, he had served a hitch in the Italian Army as a mechanic and while that trade does not seem to have any connection with the art of cooking, it was while in the Army that he became "fascinated" with the art. His first contact came as the result of a friendship with a cook who served the officer's mess in the army. From that time on, "Cappy" wanted to be a cook or chef.

After coming here and locating with friends in Waterbury, Conn., he had to put his ambition aside for awhile in order to earn money on which to live. He took a factory job which lasted until the administration of President Harding when he was furloughed. He wanted to return to Italy (being a bit homesick) but lacked the money. He wrote a friend in Cumberland who worked for the B&O Railroad and the friend sent him a ticket to come here. Later, he got a job washing engines at the B&O and still later a job at the local macaroni factory.

It was while at the macaroni factory that he met his wife, the former Clarias Grapes, who is a native of Augusta, W. Va., and they were married in 1922.

But cooking was still the thing "Cappy" wanted to do. It was his fortune to become acquainted with one of the cooks at the Fort Cumberland Hotel who introduced him to the French chef there at the time. And Cappy recalls "The chef was French, but all the cooks were Italian."

It was at the Fort Cumberland that he got his start in the art of cooking. Later, he and his wife moved to New York where he was cook in such well-known places as "No. 1" on Fifth Avenue; the Park Plaza and The Earl. He also worked at The Monticello in Norfolk, Va., the Francis Scott Key in Frederick and the Alexander in Hagerstown. Between his New York and Virginia stops, however, he had returned here for a time with the Algonquin Hotel.

"Cappy" went to CCC in 1948 and has been a member of the staff there, with the exceptions noted, since. His visit to Italy was made in 1954 when his son, then Sgt. Nello Caporossi Jr., was stationed in Germany with the Army. Father, son and daughter-in-law made the trip to Italy and visited the old homeplace. His son is presently a foreman at the Kelly Springfield Tire Company and resides on Bedford Road.

The Caporossis have two other children, Mrs. Agnes McCall of Winchester, Va.; and Mrs. Shirley Royce, 13 Virginia Avenue. The Caporossis, who live at 11 Virginia Avenue, also have six grandchildren.

"Cappy" has a brother, Umberto, in Montefiascone, Italy; a sister, Mrs. Agnes Moretti in Rome; and another sister, Mrs. Gina Foglia, whose husband is night chef at the Roosevelt Hotel in New York City.

Because of his affiliation with "show people hotels" in New York City and here when famous people of the theatre made appearances years ago, "Cappy" has chefed or cooked for many of the well-known names of the past and present. One he remembers in particular was the late Ethel Barrymore.

The Congressman, who is interested in legislation which would provide for a program similar to the old Civilian Conservation camps both in Garrett County at Swallow Falls and New Germany and the one in this county on Green Ridge. Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter signed "Second Time Around," from the man who believes all first wives should be shot at 40 was quite a revelation.

You see, I am a first wife and my 40th birthday comes up in October. My husband is also having a sizzling affair with a woman about 20 years his junior, and I've been wracking my brain trying to figure out what to do about it. Now the answer is clear. I am supposed to hand my husband a gun and tell him to shoot me.

After all, what am I good for? I've already raised his four children, my figure isn't what it used to be and I must put on glasses to read the telephone book. I'm no longer able to help him in his business because he sold it last year — for a fantastic figure, I might add. Now he plays golf, takes trips, and spends his afternoons shopping with his girl friend.

I am not much of a golfer and I can't travel with him because SHE travels with him. And as you know — three is a crowd.

Thank you for printing the man's letter, Ann. It provided me with just the right answer. Russian roulette, anyone? — FIRST WIFE

DEAR FIRST WIFE: Thank you for an interesting letter. I think you will find the one that follows a revelation, too.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope "Second Time Around" reads this. It may give him a clue as to what might be in store for him.

I am not very bright, but this is one subject I know well because I was one of those stupid fools who married a man old enough to be my father. Now I am paying for it — with interest.

Every young chicken who marries an older man will take an oath that she did NOT break up his marriage — she knows it was on the rocks when she came along.

Not me. I deliberately broke up this man's home and I admit it. I will tell you what I have harvested after 10 years, and any girl who is flirting with the notion of doing as I did can expect just the same.

The bloom is off the rose after three months. Then the old boy gets tired and wants to put on his bifocals and read the paper or watch TV every night. The romance factory is shut-down. Forget about it.

He becomes insanely jealous of any man my age and wants constant reassurance that I am not cheating on him. The Spanish Inquisition was a Sunday school picnic compared with what I go through about three time a week. I can't have groceries, cleaning, newspapers, milk or packages delivered because he doesn't want "men" around here during the day. Charming, isn't it?

All our social friends are HIS friends — you can almost smell the embalming fluid. The people in my age group are bored stiff with his company and have stopped asking us over.

I could go on and on and on, but I think you get the idea by this time. One final word: About the 100th time someone mistakes the old geezer for your father you begin to realize maybe it wasn't worth it. — MADE MY OWN BED

DEAR MADE YOUR BED: Thank you for a fitting wind-up to a highly controversial subject. I received many pros and cons but yours (in terms of your viewpoint) was among the most vivid and articulate.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from "Honor Bright" was particularly amusing because I, too, had a friend who used to tell me all sorts of dirt but she'd always start with "Promise you won't whisper this to a soul."

One day I told her: "I have the biggest mouth in town. Please don't tell me anything you don't want repeated."

She was dumbfounded, and from that day to this she has never asked me not to repeat anything — and she tells me just as much as she always did. — BIG MOUTH

DEAR BIG MOUTH: Thanks for your proof that nothing disarms like the truth.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read the letter from "Plumber's Wife" and decided the time had come for me to speak out.

Every line of work has its disadvantages and there's no getting around it. My husband is an undertaker. For years I've had to listen to jokes about morticians until I was ready to scream. You can't imagine the crude remarks I've had to smile through — such as, "How is your husband's business? Dead, I'll bet." Or, "It must be wonderful to have customers that never talk back." Recently a woman said to me, "Your husband can't lose. He gets 'em all — sooner or later."

When I was first married I used to become indignant and I let people know it. Now I accept it all as part of his work — even the "pay as you go" jokes. So, please, Ann, tell the women who complain about these things that nothing can save them like a sense of humor. — HEARD 'EM ALL

DEAR HEARD 'EM: Thank you —in behalf of all wives everywhere. Now — can you stand one more? Does your husband endorse the lay-away plan?

Market Shakes Doldrums In Pre-Holiday Session

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks pulled out of the doldrums Wednesday as individual issues scored good gains against a solid blue chip background.

The Dow-Jones industrials rose 4.55 to 722.50, just a fraction below the high for the day. Standard & Poor's more comprehensive stock index rose 0.32 to 70.33.

Trading swelled to 4,320,000 shares compared with the 3,860,000 shares which changed hands Tuesday. Advances outnumbered declines nearly 2 to 1 as 666 issues went ahead and 399 retreated. Of the 1,327 issued traded 89 rose to new 1963 highs and 13 moved to new lows.

Chrysler topped the market in activity, jumping 3 to a new 1963 high of 61⅞ on a turnover of 147,400 shares.

It was followed in activity by U.S. Steel up 1⅜, Atlas Corp. up ⅛, Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad up ½, General Motors up ½ and Ford up 1.

IBM was about the biggest gainer of the day as it spurted 10¼ in a strong electronics section where Texas Instruments jumped 5⅛, Litton 1⅜ and Beckman 1½.

The hand presented today produced a variety of interesting results when it came up during the Open Pairs of the National Championship tournament held recently in St. Louis. The North-South pair, whose bidding sequence is presented above, achieved a tie for the best score on the deal.

South's opening one spade bid, West's double, and North's redouble were fairly standard procedure. So, for that matter, was East's rescue to two diamonds. If he passed the redouble partner was apt to run to another suit himself and, furthermore, there is no assurance that the one spade bid can be defeated. In fact at one table, one spade doubled became the final contract when North passed instead of redoubling and East elected to play for a penalty. Warned of the bad trump break, declarer handled the hand with great skill and succeeded in fulfilling his bid with an extra trick.

To return to the table in question, East's bid of two diamonds was permitted to revert to North who doubled for penalties. South's hand possessed little defensive merit and he ran to two hearts. North was unwilling as yet to consign the deal to a part score, so he made a try for game by bidding two no trump. South's three club call at this point is well chosen, for it provides an accurate description of his distribution. With the diamond void clearly pinpointed by South's sequence of calls, North's hand acquired added lustre and his raise to five clubs was fully warranted.

West opened the king of diamonds which declarer ruffed. From the bidding it did not appear that any suit would break well, so South decided to establish a spade trick before playing trumps. A spade was led to the ace in dummy and a small one returned. East put up the king of spades and West discarded a heart. A diamond came back and declarer ruffed.

The king of clubs was led but West held off. South was obliged to abandon trumps temporarily for he was down to the lone queen, and another club lead would put West in to cash the setting trick in diamonds. Declarer led the queen of spades instead, West discarded another heart, and dummy threw a diamond. Declarer switched to hearts now, and on the third round of the suit he was able to get rid of North's last diamond as West helplessly followed suit and East took a discard.

It was now safe to lead the queen of trumps. West was in with the ace of clubs, but North was able to ruff West's return, draw the remaining trump, and claim the balance.

A quintet that is well diversified geographically captured the Women's Team-of-Four championship at the Spring Nationals in St. Louis. Taking a substantial early lead and holding it to the end, Patricia Adler, Baltimore; Garner McDaniel, Houston; Terry Michaels, Washington, D. C.; Carol Sanders, Nashville; and Sylvia Stein, Detroit, won the title.

In the hand presented today, Terry Michaels, and her partner Garner McDaniel collaborated skillfully to unset declarer's three spade contract and help win a key match for their team.

The bidding was of the highly competitive type that characterizes match-point competition, where each side usually stretches its assets to the very limit. Against three spades, Mrs. Michaels seated West, opened the king of hearts. Her partner overtook the king with the ace and returned the ten of hearts. West won this trick with the jack in order to lead back a third round of the suit.

Declarer, fearing an overruff on her right, trumped with dummy's jack of spades, but Mrs. McDaniel topped this with the queen. A club shift was permitted to ride around to North's ten and a small spade was led from dummy. East followed with the four and South's ten forced out the ace. With the defensive book in, Mrs. Michaels decided that the only prospect for another trick lay in the trump suit. In an effort to promote her eight of spades, she led back a fourth round of hearts. Her partner was on the alert and trumped with the nine of spades. This forced out the declarer's king and established Mrs. Michaels' eight as the master trump and the setting trick, a very neat variation of the old uppercut play.

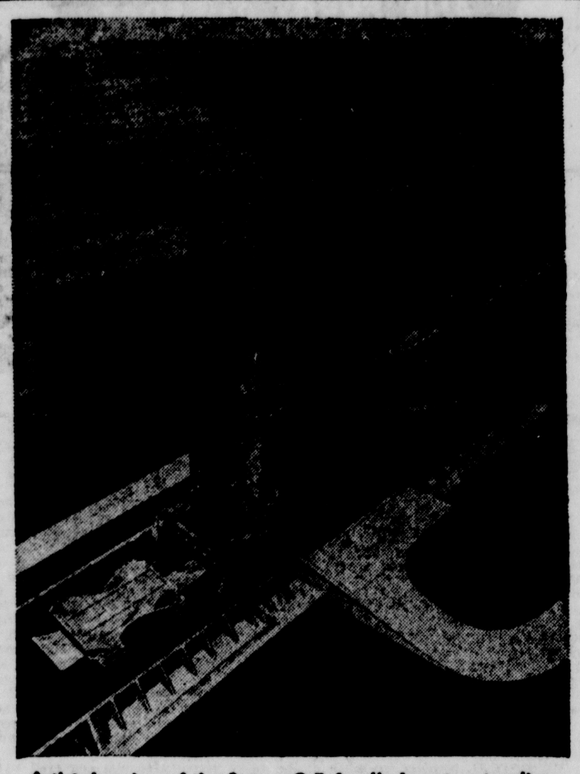
"Just Hop In Your Car And Come As You Are"



Artist drawing of the Saturn C-5 Apollo booster standing 325 feet high and weighing six million pounds at launch. Bottom left is the gigantic crawler that moves the completely assembled Saturn over the two-mile course from the Vertical Assembly building to the launch complex.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—Fine timing and supersonic speeds are major considerations in the Nation's space program, but not all movements of rockets are at supersonic speeds. Sometimes they move at a snail's pace. When the 320-foot Saturn rocket leaves its stall at NASA's Merritt Island vertical launch facility for its two-mile voyage to the launch pad, it crawls at a top speed of one mile per hour. However, in flight, the Saturn will travel about 25,000 miles per hour.

Parnelli Jones Top Favorite In Memorial Day 500 At Indianapolis

Hottest Field In History Goes In 47th Classic

Barring Accidents, Race Should Be Fastest Ever Run

By KURT FREUDENTHAL
United Press International

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Pole sitter Parnelli Jones, cheated of victory last year when his brakes failed, was the top favorite Wednesday to beat the hottest field in history in the 47th annual Memorial Day 500 - mile Speedway auto race.

At least half a dozen other daring drivers, including Scottish Grand Prix veteran Jimmy Clark in a foreign speedster, were considered real threats in the 33-car field that averaged more than 149 miles per hour in qualifications.

Barring a rash of accidents, the chase for the $450,000 jackpot was expected to be the fastest "500" ever run.

Jones Leads Pack

Jones will lead the pack down the straightaway at noon EDT Thursday. A holiday crowd of about 250,000 will watch the anticipated showdown between the conventional, four-cylinder Offenhauser - powered roadsters, four eight-cylinder rear - engine machines and three powerfully supercharged Novis.

It was the most diversified and colorful field since before World War II.

The weather forecast indicated a dry but perhaps humid day with the temperature in the 70s—nearly ideal for the finely tuned racing engines. Light showers hit the area Wednesday.

Only once, in 1915, was the race postponed because of rain. It was stopped by rain only twice—and not since 1950 when Johnnie Parsons was declared winner after 345 miles.

Drivers got their final instructions from chief steward Harlan Fengler, then settled down for the long "count-down."

Parnelli Center Of Talk

Gasoline Alley talk centered on the popular Parnelli, California's most recent gift to the racing world who was favored last year. When his brakes gave out halfway through the 200-lap grind in 1962, Jones was forced to slow down. He still managed to finish seventh.

There was talk, too, about the threat of the foreign invaders—the two British-made Lotus cars driven by Clark and Dan Gurney and powered by Ford engines. Most contestants considered them real threats, especially since they planned to make only one pit stop for tires and fuel.

The heavier American cars were exected to make three pit stops—some as many as four.

Jones will set the tempo because nobody can cross the starting line ahead of him without penalty. There was speculation he will get off to a blistering pace as the field strings out.

However, he could be pressed from the start by his closest racing buddy, Jim Hurtubise, who is next to him in the middle of the front row on the outside.

Defending champion Rodger Ward, who holds the record for the distance at 140.293 m.p.h., was also in good position to challenge early for the lead, starting right behind Jones. Next to him was Clark, with heavy - footed Jimmy McElreath on the outside of the second row.

Two other hot - shots, Bobby Marshman and 1961 champion A. J. Foyt, were in the third row. Jim Rathman and Troy Ruttman, the only other former race winners in the lineup, were far back—Rathmann in the 10th row and Ruttman in 33rd and last position.

'It'll take me half the race to catch up to the leaders," moaned Ruttman, the 1952 winner.

Expect Record

Unless accidents slow the field to 90 miles per hour or less, Ward's race record was a cinch to be shattered. Estimates for the winning average speed ranged from 142 to 146 m.p.h.

Jones, the first driver to average 150 m.p.h. at the Speedway last year, made numerous practice runs at that speed this month. That was a tipoff he apparently planned to run at such blistering speeds during the race—presumably in an attempt to pile up such a lead that he will not be forced to surrender first place during pit stops.

Seven pole winners have received the checkered flag of victory, with Pat Flaherty the most recent in 1956.

Five newcomers were in the field—including Clark and Novi chauffeurs Bobby Unser and Art Malone.

Southpaw Don Engle, bolstered by three home runs, hurled Mt. Savage to a 7-1 home diamond victory over LaSalle yesterday which moved the Indians up on first place Valley in the Allegany County Baseball League.

Valley and Allegany had to bow to the weatherman for the second day in a row. Heavy rains in the morning rendered the Allegany field unplayable and the contest was called off again, and reset for Monday, June 10. Work is scheduled to begin on the Campobello field before that date, and another site will be selected for the game.

Mt. Savage pulled out of a second-place tie with Fort Hill by scoring its eighth triumph against three wins. Valley has a 6-2 mark and leads the Indians by percentage points, .750 to .727.

Yesterday's game was scoreless for three innings, but LaSalle came up with a run in the top of the fourth when Nick Perlozzo scored on Bob Barth's infield roller. Perlozzo had walked, moved to second on Tom Keyser's single and stole third.

Mt. Savage opened up its attack guns in the bottom of the fourth. With two men out and one on, Eddie Garlitz rapped the first of the Indians' three homers over the leftfield fence.

The Indians added a third run before the frame was over, and came up wiht three more in the fifth. Bobby Robertson's two-run round-tripper highlighted the inning. Jim Carter hit a solo shot in the sixth.

Engle, who limited LaSalle to three singles, walked two and struck out two in upping his record to 4-2. Bobby Neubeiser went the route for the Explorers and dropped his first decision in two starts.

Lefthander Larry Birmingham, of Mt. Savage, robbed Neubeiser of a base hit in the fifth with a sensational shoestring catch made on a dead run. Robertson excelled at shortstop for the Indians.

Cumberland At Lonaconing For Holiday Feature Battle In Pen-Mar

Loop Leaders Boast 4-Game Victory Skein

Barrelville Visits Frostburg; Hyndman Tackles Mt. Savage

Lonaconing puts a four-game winning streak on the line today when it entertains the Manager Earl Drenning's Cumberland Hermans in the feature attraction in the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

Manager Everett Spiker's team, now occupying first place in the six-club circuit with a 5-1 record, started its victory string on May 12 with an 11-4 decision over Hyndman and then followed up with wins over Cumberland 6-2, Barrelville 8-0 and Barrelville 3-1. Lefty Grover Fazenbaker won three of the games while Jerry Ritchie copped the other one.

Frostburg and Mt. Savage, the 1962 champion, are deadlocked for the runner-up spot with 4-2 records.

Other Holiday Games

In other holiday games in the Pen-Mar League, Barrelville's Old Exports (1-5) invade the Mountain City to tackle the Frostburg Merchants and Hyndman does battle with the Old Germans at Mt. Savage. Hyndman, once a power in the league, has failed to crash the win column in five outings this season.

Games on tap for Sunday are Lonaconing at Hyndman, Barrelville at Mt. Savage and Frostburg at Cumberland.

Holiday and Sunday contests are scheduled to get under way at 2:30 p.m.

There will be no action today in the Twilight and Pen-Mar Little Leagues.

Four games, however, are scheduled in the Inter-Church Softball League today.

Friday Is Big Day

Tomorrow three contests are on tap in the County High School League with Bruce at LaSalle, Allegany at Beall and Fort Hill at Valley.

Keyser plays Charles Town at Shepherdstown at 4 p.m. for the West Virginia Region 4 title, while Cresaptown's Eagles will oppose Tri-State Memorial in a Pen-Mar Little League game at Cresaptown.

Friday's schedule also includes three games in the County Softball League, two in the Rocking Chair League, four in the Inter-Church circuit and one in the Kelly-Springfield loop.

Bidwill Brothers Aiming To Rebuild Football Cards

Club Has Signed All But Three Of 18 Draft Picks

By RICHARD LAY
United Press International

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A new brother team came on the scene in the National Football League recently with the St. Louis Cardinals, and from all appearances they are determined to build the club into an "all systems go" organization.

Charles (Stormy) Bidwill Jr. and William (Bill) Bidwill, after inheriting the team on the death of their mother in 1962, presided over the team's worst won-lost showing since 1959, saw attendance drop accordingly last season and then went out to do something about it.

Despite rumors around town that the Cardinals were ready to throw in the towel and try their football fortunes elsewhere, the Bidwills took personal command of the team's most successful rookie procurement program in many years.

The result has been the signing of 15 of their 18 draft choices, including all but one of the first 13 picks.

Brothers Not Worried

And despite problems of declining attendance since their initial year in 1960, the brothers are not unduly worried.

Stormy echoed the sentiment of the administration when he stated, "I don't know how many times I have to say it but we are perfectly delighted with St. Louis. Of course its up to the players and the coach to provide the real interest but it's also our responsibility to give them the necessary support."

"We anticipate St. Louis will be a fine pro football town," Bill added. "We consider it the right size, with a drawing area of two-million—yet we think it is not too large. In the larger cities it is possible to lose civic pride in a team.

"Baltimore is a fine example of the way we feel St. Louis could be. Baltimore didn't have pro football, but it was small enough that when they did get a team they all got behind it and accepted it.

"Here in St. Louis with the new stadium going up (a 50,000 seater) and with the drawing potential, we feel we hav everything to look forward to."

Drum Up Interest

Despite the optimistic outlook, the brothers by no stretch of the imagination have hitched their wagon to a dream cloud. In addition to their successful draft, they spend weekends on jaunts to outlying towns in Missouri and Illinois to drum up fan interest.

These trips are made along with members of the coaching staff and players who address various organizations.

Bill, who was the driving force behind the signing of the draftees said he spent most of his time during the first part of the year "on the trail."

"I spent about three days in St. Louis from Dec. 2 to Jan. 7," he said. Bill was responsible for the signing of All-American halfback Jerry Stovall and had to out-negotiate four representatives from the rival American Football Lague on the floor of the Cotton Bowl to bag his prey on New Year's Day.

Sign Other Stars

In addition to Stovall, other highly touted collegians include Purdue lineman Don Brumm; Nebraska fullback Bill (Thunder) Thornton; Bowling Green tackle Bob Reynolds and Bob Paremore a sprinter from Florida A&M who runs the 100 in 9.3.

Sun Tan Miss Wins On Sloppy Track At Garden State

CHERRY HILL, N.J., May 29 (AP)—There was little sun at Garden State Park today but John Davidson's Sun Tan Miss found her kind of track and splashed to a two length victory in the day's chief number.

Barclay Stable's Scorched Earth and Chocolate Eclair finished in that blanket order back of the winner.

Klawron Farms' Live Ice set the pace in the sloppy going and tired badly when it counted and finished fourth.

Backers of Sun Tan Miss were rewarded with a $10.60 mutuel after she stopped the clocks at 1.12 4/5 for the six furlongs.

Anita C. Heard's Krowbar won his third straight race while accounting for the second event. This $6.80 winner put the finishing touches on a 9-3 daily double started by Morsey Stable's heavily supported Profit Or Loss in the day's opener.

Intermittent rains made the track sloppy but more than 15,000 hearty souls were clicked in the turnstiles.

Pitcher Quits Staff Of Charleston Club

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Pitcher Dave Seemann has quit the Charleston Indians pitching staff to devote full time to his father's farm in Deshler, Ohio.

The 24-year-old righthander was 2-0 this season. His name was placed on the suspended list, meaning Seemann could play for the club again if he gets permission from the parent Cleveland Indians.

Seemann came to Charleston last year after winning 23 games for Dubuque and Burlington in 1961. He was 8-9 in 1962.

Baseball Reaches Holiday Milestone With Flock Of Shockers On The Books

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball approaches its first holiday milestone with a flock of shockers already on the books.

With more than one-fourth of the 1963 campaign now history:

Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers has stolen only 13 bases and it'll be awhile before he gets any more. The all-time record holder (with 104 thefts last year) is laid up with a foot injury.

Bo Belinsky, one-time no - hit wonder boy of the Los Angeles Angels, pitched his way clear into the farthest outpost of the Pacific Coast League — Honolulu — with a 1-7 record for the Angels that included too many bases on balls. But Bo is gonna take his Cadillac and expects Mamie Van Doren to show up some time, too.

Nice guy Gil Hodges, former Dodger and New York Mets first baseman, turned up relieving nice guy Mickey Vernon as manager of the Washington Senators. Hodges confidently expects to perpetuate the reported remark of Lippy Leo Durocher that "nice guys finish last." Washington usually does.

Koufax Pitched No-Hitter

Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers pitched a no-hitter against San Francisco on May 11 but the blood-thirsty Giants didn't wait long for revenge. They bombed him out in the first inning the next time they met May 24.

Among the clubs, the pleasant surprises came from Kansas City, Boston and the Chicago Cubs and the bitter pills were being swallowed in Detroit.

The Cubs, who have no manager, were trying to make a manager-of-the-year candidate out of head coach Bob Kennedy. Ninth last year, strictly on merit, the Cubs have been running in the middle of the NL pack and haven't displayed signs of serious decay so far.

And who's playing the outfield for the New York Mets but good old Jimmy Piersall, the leading exploder of our times? James is glad to be a Met. He says he understands Casey Stengel. Billy Martin once said he was glad to get away from Casey — because he was beginning to understand the old boy.

The Giants and Dodgers seem destined for another pennant duel, much as forecast before the season opened. In the American League, Baltimore's rebuilt Orioles are cocky enough to threaten New York's reign though the Yankees haven't untracked completely yet.

Many Good Pitchers

Maybe they won't. That happens every once in a while.

A bumper crop of 20-game winners may be in the works. Baltimore's Steve Barber was the first to win eight, losing three on the way. Billy O'Dell and Jack Sanford of the Giants and Jim O'Toole of Cincinnati achieved seven victories ahead of National League rivals with Billy winning seven in a row without a defeat. Nine others in the two leagues had six victories by May 28.

One manager (Walt Alston of the Dodgers) got a vote of confidence from his owner (Walter O'Malley) but that didn't matter nearly as much as the fact the Dodgers shook off their early injuries and began to win a few.

And a strange situation developed in New York. The Yankees, who are going about winning another pennant in their usual stolid fashion, are worrying about the tremendous press and fan reaction to the NL Mets, who are proceeding to lose game after game in their own inimitable fashion.

East German Reds Call Berlin Olympic Proposals Unbelievable

Communists Don't Reject Idea, But Want Recognition

BERLIN (UPI) — East German Communists said Wednesday proposals to hold the 1968 Olympic Games in Berlin were "unbelievable."

A lengthy article in the official party newspaper "Neues Deutschland" Wednesday was the first published reaction to suggestions by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and West German Olympic committee president Willi Daume that the games be held here.

The Communists did not flatly reject the idea but made it clear it would have to be coupled with some kind of international recognition of the East German regime.

It said neither Brandt nor Daume had any right to speak to the International Olympic Committee on the question.

"Negotiations over Berlin with any international organization without the participation of the (East) German Democratic Republic Olympic Committee have no weight," the story said.

It said Brandt would first have to talk to "appropriate authorities" in the East German regime before he could suggest Olympic games in both sides of the city.

It also said Daume could not get into the question because according to the Communist viewpoint West Berlin is not part of West Germany.

First Break Cops Aqueduct Feature

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — Velvet Acres' First Break turned on the power in the stretch to win the Cherry Pie Purse at rain-soaked Aqueduct Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Decathlon-Askalot, ridden by Heliodoro Gustines, scored by a length and a quarter over High Tide Stable's Jimmy Cannon, odds-on favorite, who nosed Stella G. Steckler's Ancient Attic for the place.

Given lukewarm support in the wagering by the crowd of 25,187, First Break returned the across the board mutuels of $13.10, $4.30 and $3.20.

Jimmy Cannon paid $2.90 and $2.30 and Ancient Attic was $3.80 to show.

Winner of the Dixie 400 National Championship auto race in Atlanta June 16 will receive more than $4,000 an hour.

Fourteen of the 25 players on the Detroit Tigers' roster attended college. Five of them received degrees.

Ronnie Fairholm, the jockey, had to quit because his weight went into the welterweight class. He's now an agent.

In a survey of 50 Ohio high school football coaches on the use of the two-point conversion it was shown that of 1,954 conversion attempts in the last three years, only 9.8 per cent were one-point placements and 90.2 per cent were two-point attempts.

BERLIN (UPI)—A Soviet fighter plane Wednesday buzzed a U.S. Air Force transport and the incident promptly brought a United States protest against "dangerous maneuvers" in the Berlin air corridors.

COLLECTION DAY FRIDAY

De Gaulle Planning Washington Visit

PARIS (UPI)—A government spokesman Wednesday said President Charles de Gaulle plans to visit Washington at an opportune time for talks with President Kennedy. De Gaulle made it clear he is not interested in any showdown session on French-American differences now.

De Gaulle's position was made known at a news conference by Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte. It obviously was designed to rule out finally any Kennedy-De Gaulle meeting during the U.S. chief executive's visit to Europe this summer.

Orders are being accepted for the All-Star baseball game in Cleveland July 9. Reserved seat tickets are $6 and boxes $8. Add 75 cents for mailing charges and apply to All-Star game office, Cleveland Stadium.

Md. Bar Would Revamp Judge Naming System

BALTIMORE (AP)—An amendment to the Maryland constitution which would change the method of selecting and electing Maryland judges was proposed Wednesday by a special committee of the Maryland State Bar Association.

The proposed amendment in a companion report by the Committee on Judicial Selection was made public at a news conference called by the committee chairman, Eli Frank Jr. of Baltimore.

Under the proposal, the governor would be required to fill a judicial vacancy from a list of two or three persons — depending upon the size of the jurisdiction — prepared by a non-partisan nominating commission.

In addition, an incumbent judge would run for election without competition.

At present, the state and local bar associations recommend candidates for judicial vacancies, but the governor is not required to make his selections from such lists.

The committee gave this reason for recommending non-competitive elections for judges:

"The competitive judicial election has on several occasions been an undignified procedure which reflects unfavorably on the bench and the bar.

"Such an election can result in a battle of advertising which is unduly expensive and causes dissension among the members of the legal profession."

Frank said a judge seeking return to his post after completing his appointive term would run on the ballot by himself and could either be selected again or rejected, on the basis of his record, by the electorate.

Pamela Kipp Is Honored At Hyndman

Pamela Kipp walked off with the major honors at the annual commencement last night of Hyndman-Londonderry (Pa.) High School, where 29 graduates received their diplomas.

Miss Kipp, who had first scholastic honors in the class of 1963, received nine awards in all. She won awards from Hyndman businessmen as the top student in English, arts and crafts, history, mathematics and science. She was awarded a bond by Oscar Jordan Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for having the highest four-year scholastic average. Her other honors were the Daughters of the American Revolution award for character, leadership and service and one of two Danforth Foundation awards.

Three other members of the graduating class received two awards each last night. Janet Cook, who won second scholastic honors, also shared the commercial award for highest scholastic average in that field. She tied with Brenda S. Ringler, whose second award was an honorable mention for ranking third scholastically in the class. Kenneth Mason also won two honors, a Danforth award and a bond from the Hyndman Grange as the student who has done most for his class over four years in furthering class projects and working toward their financial goals.

Four other seniors got awards last night. Mary L. Hutzell received the Procter and Gamble Company's home economics award for being the top student in this field. Charles Bush won the sportsmanship award given by Dr. John Topper. Joyce Shaffer received the Lions Club award as the student serving school and community most. Walter Dennison was the recipient of the industrial arts department award.

Awards were presented by L. G. Keller, supervising principal. Dr. Topper, as president of the school board, presented diplomas.

John V. Deuel, scientist, author and explorer, delivered the major address to the 29 graduates, their relatives and friends. Student speakers were Kenneth Mason, class president; Gary Harold and Pamela Kipp.

37,000 County Tax Bills Ready For Delivery

Receipt Likely Friday, Saturday

A rush of activity which has involved the office of Allegany County Tax Collector Francis G. Philpot reached its climax yesterday when some 37,000 county tax bills were taken from the Court House to be mailed to the county's taxpayers.

Delivery of the bills is expected Friday and Saturday.

The bill forms were printed after the Board of County Commissioners set the county tax rate at $2.05 on each $100 of assessed valuation on April 2.

During most of May, Mr. Philpot and his deputies have been working long hours preparing the 37,000 bills for mailing.

Following tradition, June undoubtedly will be the peak month for collection of county taxes. A five per cent discount is allowed for county taxes paid in June. Last June, for instance, when the rate was only $1.85, collections at the Court House for the month reached $2,803,842.42.

In an 11-month period since last June 1, county tax collections on 1962 taxes have added up to $3,381,657. That is 109 per cent of the $3,103,350 the conservative county commissioners figured for the entire fiscal year when they approved the tax rate in April 1962.

On April 2, the county commissioners this year figured their yield from county taxes in the upcoming fiscal year at $3,873,500. On this basis of this year's experience, the actual take probably will exceed $4,000,000.

Beginning next Tuesday, Mr. Philpot's deputies will begin visiting seven communities around the county for the collection of state and county real estate and personal property taxes.

Scheduled for June are the following visits:

Frostburg Fire Hall — Tuesday, June 4; Wednesday, June 5; Tuesday, June 11; Tuesday, June 18, and Tuesday, June 25, 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Westernport Town Hall — Thursday, June 6; Thursday, June 13; Thursday, June 20, and Thursday, June 27, 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.; Lonaconing Fire Hall — Friday, June 7, and Monday, June 17, 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Barton Town Hall — Monday, June 10, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.; Wednesday, June 19, 10 a.m. until noon; Midland Fire Hall — Monday, June 10, 10 a.m. until noon; Wednesday, June 19, 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.; Mt. Savage VFW Home — Wednesday, June 12, 1 until 3 p.m.; Friday, June 21, 10 a.m. until noon; Flintstone Fire Hall — Wednesday, June 12, 10 a.m. until noon; Friday, June 21, 1 until 3 p.m.

Mr. Philpot reminded taxpayers that they can save both time and effort by mailing their checks to the Court House.

DR. MILLARD G. ROBERTS

Commencement Speaker Named At Fort Hill

College Head Also To Talk At Beall

Dr. Millard G. Roberts, president of Parsons College, described as the fastest-growing college in mid-America, will speak at commencement exercises at Fort Hill and Beall high schools.

Described as a soldier, scholar, author and lecturer, Dr. Roberts will speak at Fort Hill on Tuesday, June 11 at 8 p.m. and at Beall High on the following day at 8 p.m. His topic will be "What About Tomorrow?"

Mrs. George M. Young, a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, will present diplomas to 264 seniors at Fort Hill.

Mrs. Richard Winer, a member of the board, will present diplomas to 151 seniors at Beall High.

Graduated a Phi Beta Kappa from Syracuse University, Dr. Roberts earned his way from the age of 15. After further study at Yale University and the University of Chicago, he now holds the earned degrees of B.A., M.A., B.D., and Ph.D., and an honorary D.D.

He was recently cited by the University of Chicago for his outstanding work in the field of education and religion.

Since becoming president of Parsons College in 1955 at the age of 37, he has seen the college enrollment increase by more than nine times (212 to 1,900).

Now staff chaplain of the Iowa Headquarters National Guard, he served during World War II in the South Pacific, and received a special presidential award for his work with troop morale.

County, Towns Share $7,529

Allegany County and its municipalities will share $7,529.57 during the next few days from delinquent income tax collections, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

State-wide some $899,639 is being distributed from collections made during the current state fiscal year which ends June 30 and covers payments on delinquent returns due for the years 1949 through 1961 and from additional tax assessments.

The share this year from delinquent income tax collections is about 10 per cent more than the $815,836 distributed during the fiscal year which ended last June 30.

Allegany County will receive $4,668.87 while the seven incorporated municipalities will share $346.08.

No Collections Today

The Boch Hauling Service will not collect trash in LaVale and Ellerslie today because of the Memorial Day holiday. This involves those areas where collections normally are made every Monday and Thursday. The next collection in these areas missed today will be next Monday.

Potomac Edison Plans To Share In New Station

Will Connect With Mt. Storm

Initial investment in the new Fort Martin power station, to be built on the Monongahela River near Morgantown, W. Va., will be shared by two operating companies of the Allegheny Power System, according to R. G. MacDonald, President of The Potomac Edison Company.

Potomac Edison will share with Monongahela Power Company the cost of the first 500,000 kilowatt unit, expected to be about $57.5 million. It is expected that Monongahela personnel will man and operate the plant.

PE's share of the new station's output will be transmitted over existing transmission facilities and, soon after completion of the first unit at Fort Martin, over an extra high voltage (EHV) system. Mr. MacDonald said that plans call for a 500,000 volt line from Fort Martin to Mt. Storm (in Grant County, West Virginia) where a similar EHV line will be built by Virginia Electric and Power Company, extending eastward into the vicinity of PE's service area. VEPCO is presently constructing a new generating station at Mt. Storm.

Studies Procede

Although a specific location on the 900-acre Fort Martin site has not yet been selected, detailed engineering studies are proceeding on schedule, with actual construction to be started early next year. The first unit is expected to be in service early in 1967.

The common ownership arrangement is not unusual. One of the three units at the Albright power station, on the Cheat River near Kingwood, W. Va., is owned by Potomac Edison, with Monongahela owning the other two and operating the entire station.

The new Fort Martin station is a part of an extensive high voltage transmission network and power generation development in which Allegheny Power System and its operating companies are participating, along with 14 other eastern utilities. In addition to the Fort Martin station, APS will construct approximately 130 miles of EHV line. Other companies in this vast coordinated program will construct a 1,600,000 kw generating station and approximately 525 miles of EHV line.

$450 Million Cost

Total cost of this transmission-generation project, one of the largest ever undertaken by the electric industry, is presently estimated at $350 million. Power will be transmitted over the lines at 500,000 volts, a voltage much higher than any presently in commercial use in this country.

In announcing plans for the first unit at Fort Martin, APS President J. Lee Rice, Jr., said that a second 500,000 unit would likely be built by 1970 or soon after. Combined coal requirements for the two projected units would amount to 2,700,000 tons per year, nearly all of it to be supplied by mines located near the plant site and in the same river pool.

The availability of mine-mouth coal supply, installation of larger and more efficient units and the interconnections with other power systems offer economies which the companies hope will enable them to combat rising costs and thereby maintain reasonable prices for electricity.

Methodist Men Plan Cookout

The Methodist Men of First Methodist Church will hold a cookout at the monthly meeting Saturday at 6:30 p.m. on the church grounds.

Officers recently elected are Childre Bridges, president; Richard Thrasher, vice president; Herman Cunningham, secretary, and Oliver Hansel, treasurer.

Alice Cumiskey, left, won the Ursuline Auxiliary award for the second highest scholastic average during four years. Next to her is class president and valedictorian Regina Jolley, who won the school's gold cord of honor and the Ursuline Alumnae award for highest scholastic average during four years. At right are Carole Martin, Mary Jane Graziani and Victoria Gellner, who also were honored for excellence.

Police Urge Safe Driving On Holiday

The tabulation of highway deaths in Maryland over the Memorial Day weekend began at noon yesterday and statistics will be compiled until midnight Sunday, state police said.

No serious accidents had been reported either by state police at LaVale or West Virginia police at Romney late yesterday afternoon.

"Holidays are high hazard days," according to Paul E. Burke, executive director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, who said hazards can be cut down if common sense, courtesy and caution are exercised by every driver and pedestrian.

Last year, he said, seven persons lost their lives and 202 were painfully injured over the Memorial Day holiday—May 29 and 30—due to irresponsible acts, disregard for the law and wanton carelessnes.

The executive director said that speed too fast for conditions is a traffic killer so measure your motoring pleasure by carefulness per second—not miles per hour.

Suggestions for a safe holiday on the highway include: being alert at dusk and dawn; concentrate on the job in front of you; keep up with the traffic flow; don't drink; do not drive if emotionally upset, sleepy or fatigued; and drive slowly when passengers, particularly children, are in the rear seat.

Directed Verdict Concludes Trial

For the second successive day, a judge in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday granted a defense motion for a directed verdict in favor of the defendant in a dispute.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey granted a motion yesterday in the damage suit which had been brought by W. C. Thornton Sr., 103 West Market Street, Johnson City, Tenn., against the Allegany Inn Corporation, Baltimore Avenue.

Thomas N. Berry, attorney for the defendant made the motion at the conclusion of the plaintiff's case. He argued that there was no legally sufficient evidence to show negligence on the part of the defendant and that the plaintiff was himself responsible for falling down a flight of stairs at the inn by his own contributory negligence.

Mr. Thornton, who was represented by Attorney Earl E. Manges, contended that he was severely injured in a fall at the Allegany Inn on September 2, 1959.

As a result of Judge Cobey's action the jury was relieved of responsibility in deciding this case.

Only One Child Still Hospitalized

Only one of five Columbia Street School sixth graders confined Tuesday night at Sacred Heart Hospital by an unexplained illness remained hospitalized last night.

Still hospitalized is Emma Hall, 12, of 409 Independence Street, who was in "satisfactory" condition.

Friendsville Man Hurt In Fatal Crash

2 Tractor-Trailers Collide In Pa.

A 31-year-old Garrett County man was injured seriously yesterday morning and another man burned to death in a head-on crash of trailer trucks on the Ohio River Boulevard in Haysville near Pittsburgh.

David Taylor of Friendsville, driver of one of the trucks, was taken to Sewickley Valley Hospital for treatment of burns of the face, left hand and abdomen, and cuts of the forehead. His condition was reported fair.

Burned to death in the accident was a man tentatively identified as James Laustockus.

Papers in the truck he was driving indicated he was from Flint, Mich.

Police believe Laustockus, whose truck was headed for Pittsburgh with a load of peat moss, lost control of his truck and entered the other lane, where the head-on crash occurred at 6 a.m.

Taylor was carrying a load of lumber, according to authorities, who said the trucks were destroyed after they burst into flames.

City To Have Memorial Day Parade, Service

The traditional parade and service at the Soldier's Monument in Rose Hill Cemetery will highlight Cumberland's observance of Memorial Day this morning.

Four musical units will take part in the parade, which will form at 10:30 a.m. on South Centre Street near the old armory building. The paraders will begin their march to the cemetery at 11 a.m.

Del. J. Glenn Beall Jr. will speak at the service in the cemetery. Right Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, will have the invocation and benediction.

Bloodmobile Schedule Announced

The Red Cross bloodmobile unit from Johnstown Regional Blood Center will make 25 visits to Allegany County during the fiscal year July 1 through June 30, 1964.

County residents produced 2,932 pints of blood during 24 visits to date this year with two more scheduled next week to complete the fiscal year.

The mobile unit will be at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Works 7 plant next Friday and at Victory Post 155, American Legion in Westernport on Thursday.

The new schedule begins with a visit to Cumberland Eagles Home on July 1. Three other visits are planned there, October 7, January 1 and April 6.

Two day visits are listed for Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, August 5-6 and February 3-4.

One day visits at local plants are scheduled September 9 and March 2 at Celanese Fibers Company; Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, November 7 and May 7 and Kelly Springfield Tire Company, December 18, and June 3, 1964.

The schedule also calls for a visit to Frostburg State Teachers College on November 18.

Community visits include Frostburg, July 2, October 8, January 1 and April 7; Westernport-Piedmont, September 10, December 3, March 3 and June 2, 1964; and Lonaconing on November 6, and May 6.

$609,000 In C&P Improvements Here

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company during the past 12 months has allocated $1,200,000 for projects in Western Maryland.

This figure includes $609,000 for new dial central office equipment here to serve about 3,000 additional customers.

The equipment will be placed in the new addition to the local telephone company building and is expected to be in operation some time in July.

Nearly $340,000 was allocated for two jobs in Oakland. These will provide additional cable and wire facilities in the Deep Creek Lake and Mt. Lake Park-Swanton sections.
